New London Motorist First 1940 Highway Victim

DIE IN STATE

lton Workman Dies in Accident at Malt- ing Plant

The new year but a few hours old, Outagamie county marked up its first traffic fatality for 1940. A workman was killed early this morning in a malt-plant accident at Chilton and eight other violent deaths were reported by the Associated Press in Wisconsin over the holidays which ushered in the new year. One of the deaths was from drowning, and the others were traffic fatalities.

John Richardson, 18, New London, was fatally injured about 3:45 Monday morning on County Trunk D near Sugar Bush when his car went off the road and tipped over while he and two others were returning home from a dance. Richardson was pinned beneath the machine which turned over after he lost control at a curve. He suffered a skull fracture and died shortly after being taken to the Community hospital, New London. District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr and Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner, investigated and said there would be no inquest.

Victor Handschke, 19, Maple Creek, and Robert Hulchinson, 18, Maple Creek, who were with Richardson, suffered cuts and bruises. Richardson was born at Bear Creek. He was employed at the Earl Knuth farm, town of Maple Creek.

Survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson, New London; five sisters, Mrs. Erna Oomen, Neenah; Mrs. Ervin Neilson, Beaver Creek; Mrs. Lloyd Ramsey, Milwaukee; Mrs. Lloyd Goetz, New London; and Mrs. Hiram Johnson, Green Bay; three brothers, Elton, Clintonville; Maynard, Sheboygan Falls; and Arlyn, New London. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church, Bear Creek, the cortege forming at the Richardson home at 1 o'clock. The Rev. R. R. Holiday will be in charge of the services and burial will be in the Bear Creek cemetery.

His head and body mangled, Henry Schadt, Sr., 56, Chilton, was found dead about 7 o'clock this morning at the Chilton Maltine company by a fellow workman, Henry Fleming. Authorities said he had been dead several hours, having been caught accidentally in a machine. Mr. Schadt was an employee of the firm the last 17 years.

He was born in Russia May 25 1883, and lived in Chilton most of his life. Surviving are the widow and a son, Henry, Jr., Chilton. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at Pfeffer Funeral home, Chilton, and at 2:30 at St. Martin Lutheran church, Chilton, by the Rev. K. Ramthun. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery, Chilton.

Fractured Jaw
Waldemar Belling, 17, 1625 N. Appleton street, suffered a fractured jaw when the car he was driving on Highway 10 south of Appleton struck a culvert and tipped over about 5:25 yesterday morning. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. The car was damaged badly.

One person was injured when a car driven by Beverly Grunert, 22, 222 N. Union street, turned over at the intersection of Highways 41 and 10 west of Appleton at 12:20 Sunday morning. Grunert was driving north on Highway 41 and the car crossed the intersection, hit the turn-over, Helmut Hannemann, 21, 1525 S. Oneida street, suffered a broken small bone in his shoulder. He was treated at St. Elizabeth hospital. Grunert and William Munchow, 24, escaped injury.

Six states reported no violent deaths during the holiday period which ended yesterday. These states were Idaho, Mississippi, North Dakota, Nevada, Rhode Island and Vermont. Approximately 160 met violent death last New Year's.

Fire Fighters of Appleton, Vicinity In Busy Weekend

Home Burns Near Combined Locks; Blaze Destroys Farm Barn

Fires over the holiday weekend destroyed a home at Combined Locks, a farm barn at Clintonville and caused less serious damage to several homes in Appleton and vicinity.

Fire which apparently started in the wall behind the stove, destroyed the home, furniture and personal belongings of the Leonard Hakker family at Combined Locks about 7 o'clock Sunday morning. The roof and second floor of the building were burned completely, while the remainder of the outer walls were water-damaged and possibly will have to be razed.

The Kimberly fire department was called and fought the blaze during 4 below zero weather. Fire Chief Peter Berkhus, Combined Locks, who examined the ruins with Fire Chief Alex Malcolm of Kimberly, said that the loss probably would amount to $4,000, which is partly covered by insurance. Only a parlor suite and a few smaller items were saved.

Mrs. Hakker, who arose about 6:30 was down stairs when she smelled smoke and heard crackling in between the walls. She immediately went upstairs to arouse other members of her family who were

Austin Rejects Bid to Jackson Day Dinner

Washington — (U) — Senator Austin (R-Vt.) declined today an invitation to attend the annual Jackson day dinner of the Democratic party on Jan. 8.

Austin, invited in a precedent-breaking move, wrote Homer S. Cummings, Jackson day committee chairman, that he would refrain from attending because of his "high regard for the institution of party responsibility in the American political system."

Although neither Senator McNary of Oregon nor Representative Martin of Massachusetts, senate and house minority leaders, have replied formally, there were indications that they would turn down their invitations, which were sent with President Roosevelt's approval.

Heils and Freys Leave On Trip Through South

Milwaukee — (U) — Governor and Mrs. Heil and Mr. and Mrs. August Frey left today on an automobile tour of southern states.

The governor and Frey, director of the state department of research, plan to return to Wisconsin by Jan. 16.

King's Proclamation Calls 2,000,000 Britons to Army Service Before End of Year

London — (U) — A proclamation by King George VI calling about 2,000,000 more Britons to the colors gives the British a potential army of at least 3,500,000 men.

It was expected all will be in service by the end of the year.

He advised the city council to elect as his successor Representative Walter Chandler, who could not make the race for office because of a technicality. Finns Report Capture of Russian Army Base and End Of Attack on Eastern Front Helsinki — (U) — The capture of a Russian army base and the smashing of an all-day tank-supported Russian attack at two points on the eastern front were reported today by the Finnish army communiqué.

The Russian base at Aittajoki "passed from hand to hand during the day" before the Finns finally took it, the communiqué said, adding that three machine-guns, a field kitchen and 400 overcoats fell into their hands. Near Lake Lavajärvi the Russians were said to have attacked throughout the day with tanks supporting the infantry only to be repulsed with the loss of a tank destroyed.

Gains northeast of Lake Ladoga and in the Suomussalmi region, scene of the weekend triumph over the Russian 163rd division, also were reported.

Large sections of Turku, historic port of southwestern Finland, lay in smoking ruins today, leveled by yesterday's Soviet Russian aerial attack.

Museum Burning

Turku castle, dating from the thirteenth century, and housing one of Finland's finest museums, still was in flames. Many objects of art were removed while more than 20 places were raiding.

The waterfront district was reported devastated. A government spokesman said the damage was "very great," but that only two persons were reported killed and four injured.

With Soviet land forces reported stalled on the Mannerheim line on the Karelian isthmus, red bombing raids were seen as reprisals for the reversals. More than 50 cities and towns have been raided in the month-long war. Some of the cities, the Finns asserted, have no military significance.

2 Gunmen Get $1,000 At Racine Theater: Tie Up 6 Employees

Racine — (U) — Two gunmen held up the Venetian theater in downtown Racine last night and escaped with $1,000 in receipts after binding Manager Ely Arkin and five employees.

Arkin and Jack Rothschild, a doorman, loosened their bonds quickly, but the bandits disappeared after a two-mile chase by a police car and a private automobile.

Miss Catherine Hilgers, cashier, was being escorted through the lobby to Arkin's office when the two appeared. With her were Arkin, Rex Heiser, a doorman, and William Bindel, an employee.

The bandits displayed pistols and forced the quartet into the office, where assistant Manager Everett Anderson was at work. They took the money from Miss Hilgers and bound all five. Rothschild rapped on the door and was jerked inside and tied.

Arkin and Rothschild followed the men out and saw them jump into a cruising automobile. A boy in the theater heard the outcry and stopped Roy Brush, a motorist, and he gave chase. Bindel notified police, who picked up the trail, but the bandits shook their pursuers near a railroad station.

Both men were described as about 40 and well dressed. A lone holdup man similarly obtained $1,200 at the Venetian about six months ago.

Rhineland Child Succumbs to Burns

Rhineland — (U) — Carol June Mount, 3, died last night of burns suffered earlier in the day in a fire which started in the Christmas tree at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mount.

Firemen Allan Sackett groped through thick smoke to rescue the child from her bed and carry her out of the blazing house.

Labor Board's Powers Upheld In Court Ruling

Supreme Tribunal Finds Court Can't Pass on Union Certification

DEFEAT FOR A.F.L.

Board Order Ending Independent Union at Milwaukee Also Sustained

Washington — (U) — The supreme court upheld broad powers claimed by the national labor board today by ruling that a federal court of appeals does not have the right to pass on the board's certification of a C. I. O. union as the exclusive collective bargaining agency for all Pacific coast longshoremen.

This opinion, a defeat for the American Federation of Labor, sustained a decision by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that it could not review the board's action in lumping all west coast longshoremen into one voting unit.

The federation had contended that the longshoremen of each individual employer should be permitted to determine their collective bargaining representative.

But while upholding the board's order certifying the C. I. O. longshoremen, the high court's opinion remarked that "the effect of the certification" was that "in the case of some particular employers, their workers who are not organized or represented by the C. I. O. affiliate have been deprived of opportunity to secure bargaining representatives of their own choice."

This effect, the opinion noted, was one alleged by the A. F. of L. In two other decisions, the court also upheld the contention of the labor relations board that it had the power to direct elections to determine collective bargaining representation without interference by the federal circuit courts.

Milwaukee Case Ruling

One of the decisions sustained a board order placing the same on only one labor organization (a C. I. O. affiliate) on a ballot for a run-off election to determine collective bargaining representation for employees of the Consumers Power company of Jackson, Mich.

The other sustained a board order directing the complete disestablishment of an independent union of employees of the Falk Corporation of Milwaukee.

All three decisions were unanimous. Justice Stone delivered the opinion in the longshoremen and Consumers Power cases.

Seizure of Mail Causes Protest

U. S. 'Cannot Admit Right Of British to Interfere, London Told

Washington — (U) — The United States formally protested to the British government today against Britain's seizure of mail from the United States destined to Germany.

This government, a note to Britain said, "cannot admit the right of the British authorities to interfere with American mails on American soil or on neutral ships on the high seas nor can it admit the right of the British government to censor mail on ships which have involuntarily entered British ports."

The state department cited four specific cases of British authorities taking around 1,250 sacks of mail and parcel post from American or neutral ships.

The United States note, delivered to the British foreign office by the American embassy in London, stated that with regard to mail to or from Britain "this government readily admits the right of the British government to censor private mails originating in or destined to the United Kingdom, or private mails which normally pass through the United Kingdom for transmission to their final destination."

But with regard to other mails the Hague convention was cited as recognizing "that postal correspondence of neutrals or belligerents is inviolable on the high seas."

The state department contended that "the same rule obtains regarding such correspondence on ships which have been required by British authorities to put into a British port."

Texas Given Job in Interior Department

Washington — (U) — Stephen Early, presidential secretary, asserted today that among the first nominations to be submitted to congress (this session probably would be that of Alvin J. Wirtz of Austin, Texas) to be undersecretary of the interior.

Wirtz is an attorney, and a former member of the state legislature. Early said he knew reclamation and oil matters and "has a good background."

He would succeed Harry Slater, who resigned to become administrator of the rural electrification administration.

President Roosevelt gave Wirtz a recess appointment today, subject to senate confirmation.

Fights are Forecast Over Major Issues In Coming Session

NAMED JUDGE

Madison — (U) — Appointment of Roland J. Steinle (above) Milwaukee attorney, to succeed the late Judge John J. Gregory in the Third Milwaukee branch of circuit court was announced by Governor Heil today.

The governor previously had appointed Civil Judge Edmund Gauswitz of Milwaukee to the post. He accepted, but later reconsidered and declined the appointment.

Hull Disclaims Ambitions to Run For Presidency

Reported to be Trying to Keep Politics Out of Foreign Affairs

Washington — (U) — Secretary Hull disclaimed today personal ambitions for the presidency.

At his press conference, he said he knew nothing of reports that President Roosevelt had chosen him as his successor. He added immediately that he had made all comments that could be made on this subject, six to twelve months ago, when in writing to various persons, he stated he had no personal purposes, in any sense, of a political nature.

Hull said he also told those persons that he was not giving anybody permission to do or say anything contrary to that attitude.

Some of the letters to which he referred, he recalled, have been published.

Dawson, Former Bank Cashier at Brillion, Is Granted Probation

Milwaukee — (U) — George Dawson, 60, former Brillion bank cashier, who was sentenced to a three-year term in federal prison for embezzlement of bank funds, has been granted probation.

Dawson, who is serving a state prison sentence of one to ten years for embezzling $35,291 of bank funds, applied to Judge F. Ryan Duffy for suspension of execution of the federal sentence so that he could become eligible for parole from the state prison.

Judge Duffy granted this request. It was announced by his court clerks today, and ordered that if Dawson is released from state prison he be placed under the control of Federal Parole Officer Maurice Wolkmeyer for the duration of his federal sentence.

Veteran Negro Messenger for House Group Regrets 'Misery'

Will Keep Him From Sessions

Washington — (U) — The president may come to congress in a high silk hat ... all the senators and representatives may be there ... every flag may fly, but tomorrow's opening will not be the same, for Harry Parker won't be present.

Harry is a venerable negro messenger for the ways and means committee who has witnessed more congressional openings than any man who ever lived. This would have been his sixty-eighth.

"It's the misery," said Harry, his big soft eyes filling with tears. "It's the misery in my back."

Harry was born at Mt. Vernon, he doesn't know how many years ago. His paternal grandfather was George Washington's body-servant.

Flood-Waters Add To Quake Toll in Stricken Turkey

Whole Villages Reported Swept Away in Western Region

Ankara — (U) — Torrential rains caused new havoc in earthquake-stricken Turkey today, swelling flood-waters which were believed already to have caused at least 1,200 deaths.

Whole villages of the Bursa region in western Turkey were reported swept up by the torrents and carried into the Sea of Marmora.

Some new quakes were felt in the northeastern region which suffered devastation last week, but because of shattered communication lines it was impossible to determine whether there had been new damage.

The most turbulent rivers were the Surlu, Sindshan and Adranos, which flow northward across a broad coastal plain into the Sea of Marmora. At some points the flood-rivers spread out for 10 miles.

Hamlets Swept Away

Some small riverbank hamlets and their inhabitants were reported to have been carried away in their entirety.

"The rivers are stretching out arms like an octopus, seizing victims," said a Turkish officer who flew over the region. In some cases the rivers seemed to have changed their courses permanently.

Officials estimated that last week's earthquakes resulted in 45,000 dead, 100,000 injured and 50,000 homeless.

At least 26,000 were said to have been made homeless by floods. Seventy bodies have been recovered thus far.

At Kamalpaşa 400 houses were swept away as most of the inhabitants perished.

All the pedigreed stallions and bulls of the famous Haras stables at Karadagabay drowned. Thousands of cattle, sheep and goats were carried away in the floodwaters of the Smyrna region on the Aegean.

The flood zone in European Turkey, near Adrianople, was still large, but rains moderated and the rise was checked.

Buchalter Given 14-Year Sentence

Pleads Guilty in Court Today to Nine Additional Indictments

New York — (U) — Louis "Lepke" Buchalter, racketeer, was sentenced today to 14 years in prison for violation of the federal narcotics laws.

Lepke was convicted Dec. 20 on an indictment charging conspiracy to violate the laws in the operation of what the government called a $10,000,000 international narcotics smuggling syndicate.

Brought before Judge John C. Knox for sentencing today he pleaded guilty to nine additional indictments relating to transportation and concealment of narcotics.

During his trial the government attempted to show that he controlled an international syndicate which smuggled narcotics into the United States illegally from France, Japan, China and other countries in 1935, 1936 and 1937. The government charged he collected 50 percent of the profits.

Prison Camp Cook Is Held in Three Deaths

Fort Towson, Okla. — (U) — A prison camp cook was arrested today for questioning concerning the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rogers and their 4-year-old son, Dean, whose charred bodies were found Sunday night in the ashes of their farm home.

Roosevelt Confers With Democratic Party Leaders

Reciprocal Trade Program and Fiscal Legislation Face Attacks

CHIEF MEASURES

Washington — (U) — Here are the major measures confronting the congressional session starting tomorrow:

Defense — President Roosevelt will ask early approval of record-breaking appropriations.

Finances — President expected to suggest substantial reduction in other governmental expenses to compensate in part for defense outlays, leaving to congress the question of whether to raise new revenue or increase the present $15,000,000,000 debt limit.

Farm — Administration probably will ask continuance of present benefit program but will urge that congress raise additional revenue for any extra-budgetary benefits.

Neutrality — Few, if any, changes contemplated in present neutrality act, but senate sentiment growing for special legislation dealing with Japan.

Trade — Major battle in prospect over continuance of the administration's reciprocal trade program.

Labor — Several groups demanding changes in Wagner labor relations law; wage-hour amendments also may be offered.

Washington — (U) — Statements by individual lawmakers gave the "trouble seeking" signal today to leaders asked to avoid major controversies during the election-year congressional session.

President Roosevelt, who will address the senate and the house shortly after they convene tomorrow noon, called Democratic chiefs, including Vice President Garner, to the White House for a series of "pre-view" conferences on legislative business.

The president and his associates have been represented as desiring a brief session that could wind up before the summer political conventions.

Against this plan, however, was balanced the desire of many legislators to obtain action on pet measures and the projected vigorous battles over the reciprocal trade program and fiscal legislation.

Senator Connally (D-Texas), a member of the finance committee, raised another important controversy with a statement that he would re-offer his proposal to require the government to match state grants to the needy aged on the basis of $2-to-1 to a maximum aggregate of $15 a month.

Won Senate O. K.

The proposal, which Connally argued would prevent discrimination against the less-wealthy states, was approved by the senate last year but was not finally enacted.

Connally said he also would ask for a schedule of stiff war-profits taxes if a revenue bill was offered, and senator Townsend (R-Del.) demanded that the administration's authority to purchase foreign silver be terminated.

The first important issue will come up next Monday, when the house considers a bill to impose federal penalties for the crime of lynching. Although the house was expected to approve the legislation after two or three days' debate, the situation in the senate was different.

Connally, who led a successful filibuster against a similar measure two years ago, told reporters that "there will be no anti-lynching legislation."

Fight Over Defense

A few Republicans made it clear they would wage a vigorous fight against the administration's projected record defense appropriations, but Democratic leaders predicted these would be approved.

Battles also are in prospect over general appropriations, for there have been hints that the president is cutting a number of funds in which congressmen were interested. The forthcoming fight over continuance of the administration's reciprocal trade program, which expires at the end of the session, also is expected to be a major issue.

Appleton's First Baby of New Year Born Early Monday

The first birth reported in Appleton in 1940 was a son to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ebbens, 922 W. Summer street. The newborn "checked in" at 4:35 Monday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

The Ebbens haven't yet decided on a name for the new baby. Both mother and son are doing fine.

The first baby born in Little Chute this year was a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wildenberg. It was born at 7 o'clock Monday night.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Long, route 1, Appleton, New Year's day at St. Elizabeth hospital.

Road Commission Cuts $4,500,000 From Its Program

Makes Reduction in Expenditures for 18-Month Period

Madison—The state highway commission, at the request of Governor Heil, has slashed $4,500,000 from its planned expenditures for the 18-month period ending June 30, 1941.

Charles McKeown, the governor's financial secretary, announced today that commission expenditures would be based on monthly allotments of funds, and that new construction contracts would be submitted to the governor for his approval prior to any contract commitments.

For the 18 months, the allotments total $50,435,870. Of this, McKeown said $10,922,440 would be available for new construction contracts.

The sum of $28,513,430 remains to be paid in cash aid to towns, cities, villages and counties, and more than $7,000,000 is set aside for the maintenance fund, including snow removal. Present contract liabilities amount for $2,400,000, with another $1,000,000 to be expended for general administration, construction supervision and for state park roads.

Estimated Income
With the curtailments in effect, McKeown anticipates a $6,051,550 excess of income in the highway department over its expenses.

McKeown issued the following statement:

"Governor Heil recognizes that the estimated income of the highway department may be reasonably correct, but feels that the state should not definitely commit itself for new construction contracts at this time based on anticipated income, and that any new road construction program should be predicated on need and adequate funds, without impairing the payment of cash aids to the localities."

The original budget estimates of the highway department for the 1939-41 biennium included a figure of $75,533,750 for estimated income and $74,402,200 estimated expenses, which would have left an excess of $1,131,550.

The principal curtailment will come during the fiscal year beginning July 1, prior to which time the commission expects to cut $300,000 from its expenses.

Nazi Concentration Camp Prisoner Says Germany Will Win

Boston—(AP)—Erwin Ernst, 30-year-old German-born Milwaukee salesman who returned to America after three months in a Nazi concentration camp, is convinced that Germany will win the war in two years, provided the United States and Italy remain neutral.

Interviewed upon his arrival yesterday, Ernst said his native land was much better off than in 1914, that Germany was turning out two submarines a day and that she had a capability of doing 487 miles an hour. He said Germany's needs were supplied by Italy, Russia and the Baltic states, and that the only serious shortage was in fats and oils.

Ernst, who became an American citizen in 1930, returned to his homeland last January, and explained that he was interned because of a Heidelberg tavern argument in which he asserted, before the war started, that Germany's policy could lead only to war. He said he was taken to a camp at Mannheim without trial, and that he was given good treatment, although the food was poor.

Mostly cloudy and continued cold weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours.

Toledo School Kids End 6-Weeks' Holiday

Toledo, Ohio—Toledo's public schools reopened today after a six-week "financial" holiday for 44,000 pupils.

Classes were suspended Nov. 22, two weeks after voters rejected a four-mill school levy. The closing permitted the board of education to avoid paying $400,000 in salaries to 1,400 teachers and 350 non-educational employees and prevented expansion of a $650,000 deficit.

The question of 1940 financing will come before the new board at its first meeting tonight.

Charge for Snow Removal on Clark Street May be Cut

A reduction from 10 to 5 cents per running foot for snow removal on Clark street will be recommended by the street and bridge committee at a meeting of the common council Wednesday night.

The committee originally had set up a flat cost of 10 cents per foot for all the streets included in the snow removal program but changed the cost on Clark street because it is only a 30 foot street compared to the 90-foot width on College avenue.

Property holders on all other mandatory streets in the snow removal program will be charged 10 cents per foot.

State's Liberal Democrats Charge Party Disloyalty

Repudiate Leadership of Broughton, Hughes, Crowley

Charging that Charles E. Broughton, Sheboygan, Democratic national committeeman, former Congressman James Hughes, DePere, and Leo T. Crowley, Madison, recently resigned as head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, with a "disloyal plot" to wreck the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, Seventh and Eighth district members of the liberal organization Saturday at Clintonville adopted a resolution repudiating the state Democratic leadership of the three men.

The resolution said the men were trying to split liberal elements of the party so election of "unwanted" elements would be attained. About 75 persons attended the meeting and the resolution was adopted unanimously.

Gustave J. Keller, Appleton, head of the liberal organization, spoke of patronage in the selection of census workers. He said:

"We cannot get cooperation from the powers that be in the different counties in the selection of census enumerators. Political jobs have gone to other political parties. Progressives and Republicans are welcome in our party, but we do not believe any of them should be given positions until they have earned their spurs in the Democratic party."

Scores Leadership

"The Democratic ticket will go down to ignominious defeat if continued under the leadership of Broughton," former Governor Francis E. McGovern, Milwaukee, told the group. "We must put control in the hands of loyal Democrats instead of Broughton."

It was decided to hold a Seventh district meeting at Stevens Point Jan. 14 to name district officers. "The Democratic party has been sold down the river so long that it has become monotonous," the resolution adopted at the meeting read. "It is a sordid business but must have its attractions. Again the game is on. An unselfish, inspiring movement was inaugurated within the Democratic party to harmonize its aims and purposes in Wisconsin and the nation for the accomplishment of the objectives of the Roosevelt administration. That movement is known as the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin."

"Its program of organization was fundamentally Democratic. Its leadership was devoted, intelligent and unselfish. The sincerity which characterized it, won support in every section of the state."

Popular Response
The resolution continued that "those who profited by the betrayal of the party in the state were at first dazed and stunned by the popular response" to the call of the new organization.

"The cloven hoof was soon disclosed. Three beneficiaries of the Democratic party, but never its benefactors—Leo Crowley, Jimmie Hughes and Col. Charles Broughton—are outdoing themselves in selfish betrayal of their party. They have undertaken to destroy this splendid organization and to nullify the first union of liberals Wisconsin has ever known and to render futile and barren the popular support of this organization."

Scuttling of the new group was to be accomplished by a plan to "dis-still asleep. Mr. Hakkert was working on a night shift at a mill.

A loss of nearly $5,000 resulted from a fire at the Albert Eulrich farm about four miles east of Clintonville on New Year's eve. A barn about 40 by 75 feet, together with a quantity of clover seed, the season's hay and grain crops, a wooden silo and the straw stack were destroyed by the blaze. The fire, which apparently started near the farm power plant, was noticed at 6:15 when the Clintonville Rural Fire department was summoned and extinguished the blaze. After a close examination of the barn, the firemen returned to this city but had just reached the city hall when they were called back to the farm as fire had broken out in another part of the barn. Due to the strong wind the flames spread rapidly and were soon beyond control with the limited water supply. Several small pigs perished in the fire. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Several hundred dollars damage was done Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meech on Paulina street, Clintonville, where fire broke out in the dining room during the family's absence. Upon the family's return about 10 o'clock the floor and walls of the room were ablaze. It is believed that the fire started from a defective lamp cord. The rug and furniture in the room were burned and the house was filled with smoke. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Makes First Run
The Appleton fire department made its first run this year at 10:55 Monday morning to put out a roof fire at the home of Mrs. Louise Brautigan, 813 W. Lorain street. Damage of $250 was caused by the blaze which started from a chimney spark.

Firemen put out a roof fire at the home of Mrs. Lorraine Radtke, 1713 E. Wisconsin avenue, at 10:33 Sunday morning. A chimney spark started the fire which caused damage of about $100.

A grass fire was put out on W. Parkway boulevard at 1:30 yesterday afternoon by firemen who found it a bit odd to be fighting a grass fire with the temperature only a bit above the zero mark.

The Clintonville Rural Fire department put out a $35 fire at the John Sullivan farm a mile southwest of Bear Creek corners Friday afternoon. The roof was damaged from the blaze which apparently started from a chimney spark.

LOST ON NEW YORK MOUNTAIN OVER NEW YEAR'S EVE

Eleven New York City college boys and girls who expected to be having a wonderful time when they arrived at a snow-covered mountain near Haverstraw, N. Y. Some are shown here eating after they had been found by a party of searchers. Sam Parsons and Norman Jeanette (left to right, standing) had returned to a farm and reported the rest of their party lost.

Congress Meeting Will be 178th Under Constitution

Washington—(AP)—Congressional odds and ends:

Tomorrow will be the 178th time congress has met under the constitution. It will be the third session of the 76th congress. Twenty-five congresses have had three sessions, one—the 67th—had four. That was the first congress of the Harding administration, bogged in a disarmament conference and the search for normalcy.

The longest session was during the congress that declared war in 1917. It ran for 354 days, adjourned for 10 days and was back again for another regular session. That congress had three sessions and came nearer to giving full-time service than any other. Of their two-year terms, members were kept in Washington all but three months.

The shortest session was a 10-day one in the summer of 1835.

Seventy empty seats may be seen by those who look close enough.

Others will be filled by 303 lawyers, 79 business men, 14 teachers, 21 editors, publishers and writers, 4 widows, 7 doctors, 3 dentists.

Eighteen classify themselves as farmers but there is not much dirt on their shoes. Fifteen might be said, perhaps, to be professional politicians; their biographies list nothing they have done besides hold public office. By the same token, four others might be called professional veterans of the World War. Forty-three for one reason or another do not say what they ever did before they came to congress. Thirteen report miscellaneous professions or trades.

U. S. Labor Board Powers are Upheld

sumers Power cases, Justice Black delivered the third opinion, in which it was announced Justice McReynolds had not participated. "The conclusion is unavoidable," Justice Stone said in the longshoremen opinion, "that congress, as the result of a deliberate choice of conflicting policies, has excluded representation certifications of the board from the review by federal appellate courts authorized by the Wagner act except in the circumstances specified in section 9 (D) of the act."

Referring to a contention by the board that the provisions of the labor act also barred review of its challenged action by a suit in the federal district court, Justice Stone said: "But that question is not presented for decision by the record before us. . . .

"It can be appropriately answered only upon a showing in such a suit that unlawful action of the board has inflicted an injury on the petitioners (American Federation of Labor and affiliates) for which the law, apart from the review provisions of the Wagner act, affords a remedy."

Federation Suit
"This question can be properly and adequately considered only when it is brought to us for review upon a suitable record."

The federation has filed suit in the federal district court here for an injunction to compel the labor board to withdraw the certification. The board contends the federation has no right to this action. Trial was postponed pending disposition of the litigation before the supreme court.

The longshoremen's decision was on one of the major clashes between the rival federation and C.I.O. In the Consumers Power case the labor board directed that the employees vote for or against representation by the Utility Workers Organizing Committee of the C.I.O. This was challenged by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of the American Federation of Labor. The sixth federal circuit court held the federation affiliate should be on the ballot and it set aside the board's action.

Board Contention Upheld
Saying its action was in accordance with its "well-settled practice," the board contended the federation "affiliate had no right to appeal to the circuit court because no 'final order' had been issued, Justice Stone's decision upheld this contention."

In the Falk Corporation case, Justice Black held that the seventh circuit court had acted erroneously in modifying the board's order for complete disestablishment of the independent union.

The opinion also overruled the circuit court's action in holding that the independent union should be placed on the ballot in an election to determine collective bargaining representation of the employees.

Board's Contention
The labor board had contended that its action in such circumstances was not subject to review by federal circuit courts.

Black said that authority for "anticipatory judicial control of election methods" could not be found in

Well Known Seer, Medium Is Dead

Milwaukeean Flitted in And Out of Several Murder Cases

Milwaukee—(AP)—Arthur Price Roberts, 73, well known Milwaukee medium and seer, died early today at his home.

Roberts operated in Milwaukee for nearly 50 years, claiming to be a spiritualist medium. He flitted in and out of several outstanding criminal cases, with the claim that he possessed occult information.

One of his better known claims was that Erdman Olson, suspected slayer of Clara Olson of Rising Sun, would be found buried the same way Clara was. Erdman, key figure in Wisconsin's famous modern murder mystery, never has been located.

In 1925, Roberts figured in a case in which William B. Rubin, as defense attorney, claimed that the identification and arrest of a bandit suspect was based solely upon a seance which Roberts conducted.

Roberts was born in Wales, England. He was known as "Dr." and "Professor," but never openly claimed the titles. It was his boast that he could neither read nor write. His first wife died in 1915, and his second marriage ended in divorce.

No Extra Effort Here For Old Doctor Stork

Springfield, Neb.—(AP)—Old Doc Stork didn't tire his wings very much when he presented granddaughters to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Whitney twice within an hour.

Daughters were born to the Whitneys daughter, Mrs. Raymond Hill, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Herb Whitney, at the same hospital where both shared the same room, were attended by the same doctor and nurse, and where their husbands paced in the same waiting room.

Former Policeman Is Found Dead in Street

Kenosha—(AP)—The body of Ernest Radatz, 62, retired Kenosha policeman, was found on a street yesterday, a bullet wound in the temple and a pistol clutched in his right hand. Radatz left the department in 1936 after 22 years of service. He had worked since as a merchant policeman.

the section of the national labor relations act involved.

"The proposed election here," he added, "has not even been held and consequently no certification of a proper bargaining agent has been made by the board."

"Until that election is held there can be no certification of a bargaining representative. . . . the court has no right to review a proposed election and in effect to supervise the manner in which it shall thereafter be conducted."

Black said the board had "reached the conclusion that full protection of the employees' right freely to choose bargaining representatives required complete disestablishment effecting elimination of the independent (union) as a candidate."

Black said that authority for "anticipatory judicial control of election methods" could not be found in

Census Takers to Begin Work This Week in Appleton

Enumerators to Gather Data on Business, Manufacturing Places

Enumerators for Appleton and Outagamie county will join thousands throughout the nation this week in the first step of the most comprehensive census in the history of the nation.

The census men will begin gathering information from business places and manufacturing plants and will make a start on the big job which will include the 1940 population census, facts on resources, business and occupational activities in the United States.

Thomas Conner, director of the Green Bay area of the census, said headquarters were being organized this week at post office buildings in the area. He said the names of enumerators will be announced within a few days.

The men are being selected by Harold M. Kuypers, district supervisor, following examinations last Thursday and Friday. Conner said those scoring highest in the examinations will be selected and others who tried for jobs may be selected later for the population count.

Information Confidential

Conner emphasized that information gathered by census takers on business and industrial plants will be "strictly confidential" and he asked for the cooperation of all business men and heads of industrial plants to speed the work.

The business and manufacturing census will take six months or more and the four enumerators for Outagamie county will be certified and will identify themselves before asking information. Reports on schedules presented are mandatory under an act of congress, Conner said.

Conner pointed out, however, that the act "makes it unlawful for the bureau to disclose any facts, including names or identity, from the reports. Only sworn census employees will see the reports, and data collected will be used only for preparing statistical information concerning the nation's population, resources and business activities."

Statistical Value

He emphasized that the individual firm's reports are but part of the thousands which are combined by the bureau for statistical reference only and cannot be used for purposes of taxation, regulation or investigation.

The biennial census of manufacturing will measure this activity in the country for the year 1939. It will show when completed how many factories are in operation, the value of their products, where they are located, what they produce, the number of wage earners they employ, how much wages they pay, whether industry is moving to rural areas, closer to the sources of raw materials, and various other pertinent information. When the census-takers approach the heads of industrial plants these are some of the questions that will be asked.

Will Show Distribution
The business or distribution census will show the channels through which the manufactured goods and agricultural commodities—the latter information to be obtained in a census of agriculture—are distributed and essential services rendered.

This canvass will cover retail and wholesale trade, service businesses such as barber and beauty shops, all types of construction activities, theaters and other amusement enterprises, hotels, laundries, rug cleaning and dyeing establishments, sales finance companies and the distribution of manufacturers' sales for 1939.

It will determine how many of the various types of businesses are operating, what they sell, the volume of their sales, the number of people they employ, how much money they receive for their work and a quantity of other information that will give business and the layman a clear-cut picture of the mammoth distribution system in the United States.

Slithering Into Unnecessary Trouble

If ever there was an example of the left hand not knowing what the right hand is doing, it is this Declaration of Panama.

After a prolonged debate Congress enacted a neutrality law based on the principle that the way to avoid entanglement in the war is to sever all connection with and all responsibility for shipping that serves the belligerents. Thus far the law that Congress enacted has completely achieved its purpose. Although there has been a fierce war at sea, no American ship has become involved in the war since the law went into effect. No American ship has been sunk. No American lives have been lost. Nothing has happened that has caused even a diplomatic collision with any of the belligerents. If the object of the law to keep the United States from becoming involved in the war as a result of incidents like those which preceded the American intervention of 1917, then the neutrality act of 1939 may be regarded as very nearly foolproof in actual practice.

Yet in the Declaration of Panama we have in the name of a so-called "zone of security," abandoned the successful principle of the neutrality law, and committed ourselves to a totally different principle, to one without warrant in international law, to one that the American republics do not have the power to enforce, to one which threatens to entangle and entangle the United States with both belligerents.

Under the Declaration of Panama the American republics undertake to patrol and police against all the great navies of Europe a zone of water 300 miles wide extending from Canada to the end of South America. Instead of adhering to the practical principle of cash and carry neutrality, the Declaration of Panama requires us to send our warships and airplanes over thousands of miles of open ocean, looking for trouble and committed to the task of trying to regulate in minute detail the activity of three great European navies.

Creates a Zone of Trouble, Not Security

The statement of protest made last Saturday by the twenty-one American republics shows on its face that far from creating a zone of security we are well on the way towards creating, unnecessarily and artificially, a zone of trouble and entanglement. The American republics announce that they will prevent "belligerent vessels from supplying themselves and repairing damages in American ports when the said vessels have committed warlike acts within the zone of security." This means that if a German, British, or French war vessel comes into any American port to take on food or fuel or repair damages, the government of that American republic, Uruguay for example or the Argentine, must decide whether that particular ship, which may have been at sea for three months or has not committed a warlike act somewhere between Newfoundland and Cape Horn.

That is utterly and absolutely impossible. For how on earth is Uruguay going to know and prove what a ship like the Admiral Graf Spee was doing in the hundred days that the ship was at sea? The British and French navies could not find the Admiral Graf Spee for three months. Does the navy of Uruguay "know where she was?" When Captain Langsdorff came into Montevideo, he announced that he had sunk 5,000 tons of shipping. If he had not announced it, how would Uruguay have learned that he was sinking ships, and where he was sinking them? At Uruguay and the other American governments going to put the captains of war vessels through the third degree to extract a confession every time they put into an American port, and how are they going to verify the confessions?

Much Still Unknown About Graf Spee Case

This protest arises out of the naval battle which ended off the harbor of Montevideo. By accident South American observers saw part of that naval action. But even of that action, which was spectacular and close to the shore, the American governments do not yet know all the facts, and some of them, the very facts which are most significant, they may never know. For example, according to Mr. John W. White's dispatch to "The New York Times," official opinion in Uruguay believes that the Admiral Graf Spee had run short of fuel and ammunition, having been at sea for a hundred days. Official opinion in Uruguay believes that the German cargo steamer Tacoma was about to sail from Montevideo with 1,600 tons of fuel oil for the Admiral Graf Spee. Official opinion in Uruguay believes that another German steamer, the Ussukuma, which was scuttled when it met the British cruiser Achilles off the Argentine coast, had a cargo of ammunition for the Admiral Graf Spee. Official opinion in Uruguay believes that the French liner Formosa was carrying ammunition for the Argentine navy from Rio in Brazil to Montevideo, that the Formosa was being escorted by the Exeter when she was attacked by the Admiral Graf Spee, and that the battle started when Captain Langsdorff fired a shot at the Exeter.

Attempt at Enforcement May End Only in Grief

Official opinion in Uruguay may be right. It may be wrong. Who knows? There were no Uruguayan observers aboard the Admiral Graf Spee, the Exeter, the Tacoma, the Ussukuma and the Formosa. Yet the policy announced on Saturday requires that the government of Uruguay shall punish somebody for something or other which no Uruguayan saw and no Uruguayan can prove.

Moreover, there is not a ship in the whole of South America, let alone Uruguay, and there may not be an American ship in the whole Atlantic Ocean, capable of dealing with a vessel as powerful as the Admiral Graf Spee. When another great German warship, or a great British warship, puts into Montevideo, is the United States government going to undertake to back up Uruguay's unprovable official guesses as to what that warship may have done somewhere in the zone?

Is the United States going to use threats of force against the great powers of Europe because officials in Uruguay have guessed that a warlike act was committed on the high seas? Are we going to engage our naval power to back up South American official opinion as to what ships like the Tacoma, the Ussukuma and the Formosa were doing? We cannot inspect those ships. We cannot regulate their voyages. Why then should we entangle ourselves in the obligation to regulate their activities on the high seas?

There is no point in it. As long as American ships are not attacked inside the zone or outside it, what real difference does it make to the American republics where the battles? Nobody in Uruguay or the Argentine was hurt by the naval battle. No one's legal rights were violated, and it is a sound principle not to complain when you have not been hurt.

The fact of the matter is that the Declaration of Panama was a mistake. It is illegal. It is unenforceable. It manufactures trouble instead of preventing it. It is unnecessary. Nothing, but pride of opinion, a wholly false pride where great peoples are concerned, will cause us to adhere to it, pushing ourselves into artificial complications from which it may soon be very difficult to extricate ourselves gracefully.

Miss Alice Conlon, 20, Of Kaukauna, Is Dead

Kaukauna — Miss Alice Conlon, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Conlon, 711 Lawe street, died at 9:15 Saturday night in Appleton after a 3-month illness. Born in Kaukauna in 1919, she attended St. Mary's parochial school and Kaukauna High school.

Survivors are her parents; four brothers, Richard, Eugene, John, De'roit, Jerry, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Glen Meyer, Detroit, and Miss Ruth Conlon, Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at Holy Cross church, with the Rev. A. Garthaus, pastor, in charge. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. The body is at Greenwood Funeral home.

Council Will Act On Bond Proposals

Oral Bids Will Be Heard At Regular Session Tonight

Kaukauna — With almost a clean slate before it the common council will hold its first meeting of the new year at 7 o'clock tonight at the municipal building.

The chief order of business will be the considering of bids for $140,000 of bonds, which will be issued to pay for the new powerhouse. The council has advertised for both written and oral bids, which on precedent means that none of the former will be received, while representatives of financial houses will be present for the oral bidding. The bonds are to run for 14 years, with $10,000 to be retired each year. The issue will be made callable in three years.

Other business will include the hearing of annual reports by city officials. The ordinance committee may report on a new measure to codify the city's traffic ordinances. Bids for sewer pipe will be considered by the board of public works.

Kaukauna Holiday Is Unmarred by Accidents

Kaukauna — For the first time in years, no accidents were reported by police over the New Year's holiday. Several arrests were made, with the offenders slated to appear in justice court today.

BOARD MEETS TONIGHT

Kaukauna — The school board will meet at 7:30 tonight at the high school. Routine business will be transacted.

Visiting Cagers Score Two Wins

Brillion Beats Merchants; DePere Defeats Brewster Squad

Kaukauna — Visiting teams won over two Kaukauna quintets in basketball games here yesterday afternoon. Brillion defeated the Merchants, 23 to 18, and the DePere Mellow Brews whipped the Kaukauna Mellow Brews, 44 to 23.

The Merchants led Brillion at the half, 11 to 10, but fell before a last quarter rally. Art Koehne and George Grogan tallied six points each for Kaukauna, with Thurov's 7 high for Brillion. The Mellow Brews fell behind at the first quarter, 12 to 7, and the visitors coasted to an easy win. Charley Bloch pumped in seven baskets for the losers, with Osen counting 12 points for DePere.

House May Order Investigation of Securities Board

Clear Case of Interference With Utility Shown, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE Washington—A sweeping investigation of the Securities and exchange commission may be voted by the house of representatives as among its first order of business.

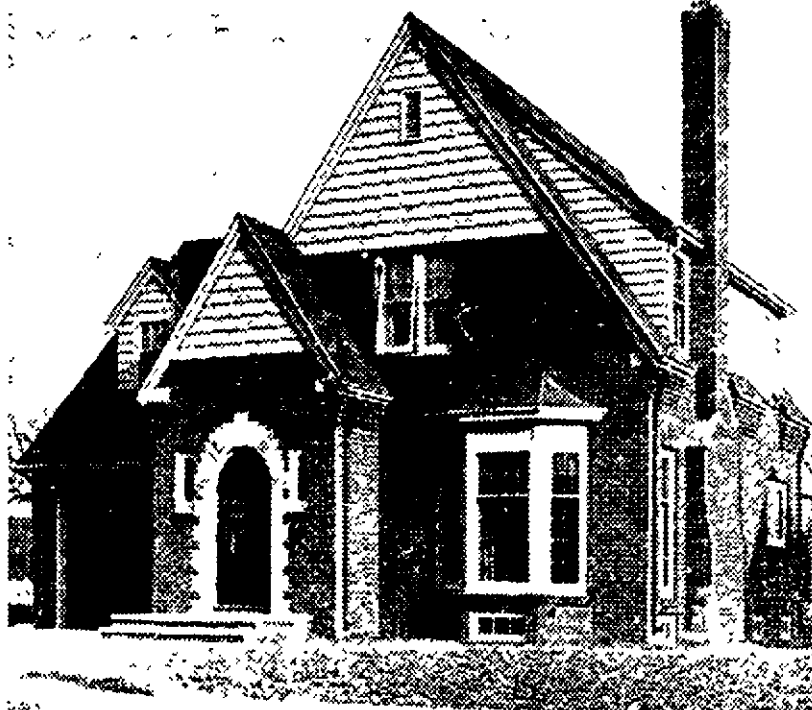

For never before has there been revealed such a clear case of interference by a governmental commission with employment and the normal development of construction in the utility business. Likewise never has the SEC before undertaken to tell American businessmen that they must issue common stock instead of bonds, increasing the expenses of their companies even though they can borrow money more cheaply by selling bonds. In effect, the SEC disregards the prospect that its action may cause electric light rates in America to be forced upward when they ought to be coming down.

Whether the SEC is at fault because its personnel, instead of being an independent commission, has been guided by the White House or by disgruntled investment bankers or by an honest belief in state socialism, or whether the existing law is so broad that its discretionary powers can be applied to produce extremes is something which the congress will want to find out. But the net effect of the sensational and unprecedented ruling made by the SEC in the case of the Consumers Power company is to open up all sorts of questions on which a majority of the house of representatives will want the public to have the facts.

Stopping Employment If the SEC has nothing to conceal as to what influences caused it to take this remarkable step in stopping employment and interfering with the opportunities of Michigan people in this case to get lower electric light rates, then the commission unquestionably will not oppose, but welcome the inquiry as a study of the workings of an important law.

The SEC was divided on the consumers power case, three New Dealers voting one way and two progressive Republicans, who again and again have shown themselves not at all friendly to the power companies, voting the other way. The issue is fundamental. After telling the country that not only the law but the regulations forbid the SEC in any way to guarantee or be responsible for the merits of the

NEW MELVIN SCHMIDT RESIDENCE

One of the newer homes on the north side of the city is the brick residence of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Schmidt at 1710 N. Erb street.

The first floor has a living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen with breakfast nook and powder room. The second floor houses three bedrooms and a bath. securities requested before it, the common stock, the common commission boldly rejects a bond issue which the Consumers Power company, because of its excellent credit status, wanted to sell to the public and which would cost only about 3 per cent annually in interest. Instead the SEC practically dictates that the $10,000,000 should be raised by common stock for which annually the company would have to pay about 6 per cent. What can be obtained for $300,000 a year, the SEC in effect says, should be loaded up to $800,000, and thus, of course, becomes a burden on electric light rates.

Opposed Stock Sale The company in question did not want to sell common stock for two major reasons—one, that it would mean increased annual cost, and the other that, if the present public Utility Holding Company act is later going to require certain changes in "integrating" corporate structures, it would be easier to accomplish this alteration if the common stock is held, for the time being anyway, by the parent company instead of by scattered or innumerable interests.

The minority in the commission thought these were good reasons—an intent in good faith to comply with the spirit of the law, and argued also that government must not invade the managerial function. But, entirely apart from the reasons given, the fact remains that three members of the SEC deem a bond issue is "not necessary" and a stock issue is more "appropriate." This practically opens the way for the public hereafter to claim that the SEC undertook a moral responsibility for such a common stock issue, and later, if the TVA or other forms of government competition should force confiscation and hurt

IN NO OTHER LAND does the magic word HOME mean so much as it does in America today. For our homes are not only the symbols of our liberty but our standards of achievement for all the rest of the world.

In our homes we enjoy freedom of speech and opinion. Freedom of the press and freedom of speech by radio make it possible for every man, woman and child to be informed of the affairs of the world.

There is another freedom we enjoy in our homes that is the envy of the rest of the world—freedom from drudgery, drafts and contamination. And for this freedom we can give thanks largely to the Heating and Plumbing Contractors of America.

Heating and Plumbing are the twin guardians of our family welfare. Heating safeguards our homes against cold, dampness and discomfort upon which sickness thrives. Plumbing supplies the fresh, pure water so essential to well-being and carries away waste so dangerous to good health.

Both Heating and Plumbing are too

8 Contagious Cases Reported During Week

Eight cases of contagion were reported in Outagamie county during the week ended Dec. 23, according to information received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, from the state board of health. Cicero and Dale each reported a case of measles. The towns of Seymour and Oneida each reported two cases of influenza. Kaukauna reported a case of tularemia and the town of Oneida a case of tuberculosis.

CCC Enrolment Will Be Taken Next Monday

The next Outagamie county CCC enrolment will be taken Monday, Jan. 8, according to William Farnum, head of the Outagamie County Public Welfare department. Applications will be taken up to Friday. Fifteen applications already have been made and the selections will be made on the basis of need.

PLAN FOR LODGING WORKS

immediately kept from the economic stream of employment. The SEC's majority members cannot be reversed except by congress; hence it is natural that they should now be asked to justify before a congressional committee their extreme interpretation of the existing law.

IF WE HAD AN AMBASSADOR AT BERLIN

Now that our noble President has concluded the time is ripe to try his hand at peace he finds that he has shorn himself of his effectiveness by calling home in petulance our ambassador from Berlin. This makes it seem advisable to appoint a special envoy to the Vatican since the Holy See, despite its long list of just grievances, has been much too sensible to cripple itself in similar fashion.

Mr. Roosevelt has been as stubborn as he was jealous of his prerogatives in respect to ambassadors, since his authority in relation to foreign affairs is extensive under the constitution. He made unusual efforts to keep an ambassador at Barcelona while the Red flag was predominant there but his nominee ran away to France where living was much pleasanter. He has kept an ambassador at Moscow by filling vacancies since it has not been easy to induce men of spirit to stay there. But when the news of Jewish atrocities at Berlin came our noble President moved to call our ambassador with haste.

Add up the advantages and disadvantages of this policy. We have gained nothing. The Jews have gained nothing. The world has gained nothing.

Perhaps had we a far-sighted, level-headed statesman in the White House who was not given so much to showmanship but selected well equipped men for these trying positions we might even have been able to sidetrack a war.

At least we would have been in an excellent position to undertake the healing work of peace without the duplicating movement of sending an ambassador to another court to advise with that court's ambassador as to what it will do.

UNMASKING THE FOXY BOYS

Recently an indictment was returned against Morris Laskin, Raphael Rush, Norman Weinberg and the Bookniga Company, to which the accused have already pled guilty in federal court at Washington and been assessed the maximum fines.

The procedure indicates that the Reds, at least insofar as General Attorney Murphy is concerned, have been denied some of their special privileges at the national capital and it also tends to explain and demonstrate that there is no denial to any of them of the precious civil rights guaranteed to all of us under our constitution.

The outfit was a Russian one from start to finish. The individuals were Russian born and sent here to trip and trap the American people. But the indictment did not seek to punish them because they were Reds nor because they spread Russian propaganda all over America nor even because they were operated by strings straight from the Kremlin.

The purpose of the Attorney General was to punish them for fraud and trickery. They could have gone right along taking their orders from Moscow and running their presses to print red propaganda night and day so long as they did not cheat. But they cheated. They could not be permitted, in other words, to act as a bible society while pouring acid on all bibles found. But they could be permitted to destroy all bibles so long as that was their declared purpose just as they could be permitted to preach a doctrine to enslave men so long as they did not defraud them.

Only a short time ago congress, concerned at the extent to which Moscow had come into favor at Washington, passed an act requiring agents of foreign powers to register, giving their names, addresses, business and, which they all hated,—their masters. The purpose was legitimate in every respect. The statute, in fact, was much like that compelling lobbyists to register. Its aim principally was to get the truth to the people.

It is well to keep in mind at all times that America is not abandoning for a moment its freedom of speech. Men can preach in this country the desirability of a law to make us all stand on our heads if that is what they want to preach. They may preach that the tyranny of a Stalin, or of a Hitler, is better than the Bill of Rights. They may preach that the standard of the meanest and the least intelligent among us should be made the standard for all of us. And if a majority of the people come to believe in any of these preachments those beliefs may be effected into law.

But we have a right to insist that the devil show his horns and that the wax wings he wears be melted off.

NATURE ON THE MARCH

While Europe shivers by night and watches by day for the full strength of war to burst, the southernmost section has been thrown into a fight against an enemy that will not be intimidated by tanks, guns or bombs.

Turkey is still trembling from the effects of a calamitous earthquake which struck without warning—without massing its offense at the borders or hurling threats. The earthquake is only one of nature's mysteries still unfathomed by man. Each time nature acts, often with no warning, and usually without regard for man's efforts to hold her off, she dwarfs the catastrophes caused by men and their little meanness.

Men in Europe have been plotting and planning for years—even centuries—to wipe out those they call their enemies, building terrible machinations as death-dealing artifices. They threaten and boast about the widespread ruin they will cast over the land. But not yet has an organ been devised by man which can cause the suffering and desolation which nature in a flash can arouse. The hundreds killed in air raids, by bombs and trench fire, are few compared to the thousands who fall at the whim of the elements.

Perhaps such tragedies are part of a plan to put man back into his place. Certainly the events in Turkey must have put thoughts of war out of the minds of the Turks. Perhaps it will bring to others' conscience the fact that no one man is omnipotent.

Nature still rules the universe and probably will continue to do so for eons to come. Man has learned to harness some of her priceless resources for beneficial uses, but he has never learned to emulate her in disaster and perhaps that is one of the secrets which man is being warned not to try to ferret out.

MURPHY, ICKES AND PERKINS

If Attorney General Murphy continues his course upon his present track he is going to get some pretty dirty looks at cabinet meetings. Only the other day over at Detroit he gave out an interview to the effect that his work against the Red borers was only starting. He even emphasized the work of the Dies committee, although without express reference, by saying that "evidence is at hand of widespread activities that are threatening our democratic institutions and the nation's security."

It was a fighting, square-jawed attorney general who snapped the whip at some of Mr. Roosevelt's courts by saying that "if the courts are lenient in penalties the department will not hesitate to recommend deportation for those convicted."

And it was a defiant, determined attorney general who concluded: "These people don't belong here. They do not care for our government and own their allegiance to another country. We propose to send them to a country they do believe in if we can find it and that is the course we expect to follow even though it means a boatload of offenders."

It is too bad for the information of the country that newspaper correspondents are not generally present at cabinet meetings. We should like to be informed concerning the chained lightning let loose by Ickes the Scold at sight of our red-haired attorney general. But it takes a woman to do the snubbing and what the Madam Secretary of Labor can do in that respect to one who treats so rudely those who are her special beneficiaries we must leave to the imagination.

THE MOUSE MOVED AND BROUGHT FORTH A MOUNTAIN

The wrangling and babbling at the convention ambitiously called the American Student Union was in the vein of callow immaturity characteristic of the flapping fringe that inhales its most stimulating thoughts from a mug of stale beer.

"If we are to be effective in sponsoring the move for peace," said one of the tireless debaters, "we must make plain our stand on the Finnish-Russian situation." But effective where? On the campus? Or at a putsch? Or over there across Lake Mendota?

But the wandering brilliant, striving vigorously to get into the spotlight, could not bring themselves to speak of Russian hordes moving against Finland as a clear act of aggression. There was the argument that Russia had some sort of inherent right to guard itself against attack from every direction and therefore that any attack it espoused must be honorable and patriotic. But the Student Union might have done better than that. Staggering around under the heavy weight of their mental gyrations they could have offered to determine for Russia, all from an engineering standpoint of course, just how much of Norway, Sweden, Turkey, the Balkans and Asia the lords of hatred might absorb to feel safe. And if they were any sort of engineers at all they could, after gobbling up the earth, extend out onto the Milky Way lest a comet break loose and jar the deliberations of those mighty intellects.

This session of the American Student Union has impressed us with one great merit to Moscow. After it takes over the world we at least will be relieved from any more debates of the Union.

The average length of life in the Scandinavian countries, Australia and New Zealand is greater than it is in the United States.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Manhattan Marquee: This may be another rainy year in the theatre, though personally I think mud mirth has about run its course. Olsen and Johnson disagree, however, and have launched a new edition of their rightfully successful "Hello Poppa" at the Winter Garden, and look forward to a second year as prosperous perhaps as the first—which was plenty.

The new "Hello" retains much of the old. The new material is, if anything, an improvement. The theatre is, as before, rampant with actors running up and down the aisles, popping out of boxes, jumping up from their seats and interrupting the proceedings with pistol shots, screams in the dark and fiendish laughter. The spiders still drop down from the ceiling and the lady still goes up and down the aisles crying out for her Oscar. Olsen and Johnson wander about through it all, having as much fun as the audience.

The most interesting (to me) addition to the show is that famous old vaudeville act of Charles Withers and his "Opdy House" which everyone in America who can remember back to vaudeville will recognize instantly. Withers is getting well along in years, but his act doesn't seem to deteriorate one mite with age. It is somewhat disconcerting to find Olsen and Johnson themselves nonparticipating in this act which should be focussed on Withers himself, but after all the show belongs to O. and J., and it's their privilege to butt in as much as they wish.

The Story Corner: The newly acquired husband of Erica Morini, the Viennese virtuosa who will appear with the Philharmonic orchestra several times this season, had never been in America until the couple arrived last year to make this their permanent home. His knowledge of English consequently is not too great.

Recently he went to the Grand Central station to purchase tickets for his wife and himself to Boston. The husband planned to return to New York immediately, but Erica Morini was to remain to fill several New England concert engagements. He therefore wanted one round-trip and one one-way ticket.

The husband was heard to say to the ticket seller at Grand Central: "Two tickets to Boston, please. Make it so I go and come back, and my wife goes and doesn't come back."

From the Mail: In one of my less lucid moments a while back I remarked that readers with an itch to write columns could go right ahead, as far as I'm concerned. That's just what they did.

Reaching blindly into a pile of columns which have snowed in, I pick up something from young Mr. Richard Schleihau of Birmingham, Ala.—"fifteen years old, and I hope some day to be a world-famous journalist."

Be that as it may, Richard's column offering is divided into two sections—"Things that Ticked Me in New York" and "Why Parents Don't Understand the Younger Generation." The latter section I shall mercifully refrain from publishing, except for a few choice excerpts, which will give you the general idea. Writes Richard in "Why Parents Don't":

"They (parents) almost have a fit when we ask for the car two nights in a row. I wish they would realize that we want to have some fun, and this is the age to have some fun. When we put the bite on them (Dear Richard: This is no way for a famed journalist to talk) for something extra besides our allowance, they grumble that they never had such things when they were young and besides we should save our money. How can we save when we have barely enough to have fun on the weekend?"

Richard finishes on a high note: "All in all, though, parents are wonderful people, and us adolescents ('wa' Richard) really love them, although we talk about them."

The things that "ticked me in New York," (I was in New York once for three days and four nights, he explained), included: "being able to tell three cab drivers and a policeman where some place was, and the officer was within two blocks of it. . . . The spooky looking outside of the legitimate theatres. . . . how crowded the automat was. . . . The fast elevators in Radio City that nearly left my stomach behind when they went up. . . . and how easy you can learn your way around the metropolis."

Those are the things that "ticked" Mr. Richard Schleihau, age 15. Ticked? Well, I dunno. For my part, it is very difficult to get tickled in elevators that leave "my stomach behind when they go up."

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Dec. 31, 1929

The total cost of the Lawrence street fill, which eliminated the old bridge and joined Superior and Lawrence streets, was $9,154, according to the estimate of L. M. Schindler, city engineer.

Structural steel for the new city barns under construction on W. Washington street was being erected. Most of the concrete foundation had been laid.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Jan. 15, 1915

German aviators dropped bombs on the British supply base near Dunkirk, destroying ammunition and killing and wounding 100 men.

Former Governor F. E. McGovern, whose term expired with the inauguration of Governor Emanuel L. Philipp at noon Monday, was to resume his law practice in Milwaukee.

Thiede's weather charts showed the mean temperature for the previous month was 16 degrees, compared with 32 degrees for December of 1913. Snowfall totaled 16.85 inches while in December of the previous year it was 25 of an inch.

Among other events scheduled for 1915 was the re-appearance of the waist line, an article read. Furthermore, it was coming back to the place where it belonged. It has been a good many years since we have seen the good old honest waist line, the article said.

For ailing lads,
His books, his kit,
All his instruments
Without his wit,
Lose their consequence!

The doctor is ill!
This constant friend,
Whose courage and will
Seemed without end,
Lies stricken today,
And our eyes grow dim,
As we pause and pray
With love for him!

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington — Washington chroniclers would give a mint for the compact card-index record that

Grover

Leslie Biffle keeps of those dramatic little moments of Senate history which never see daylight. Few senators know that he keeps it. Only one, to our knowledge, ever saw any part of it. He was the late Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas. Biffle was one of his closest confidantes.

Biffle is secretary to the Democratic majority in the senate. He has been secretary and assistant secretary for 15 years. You can imagine the nature of some of the things that come his way—stories of the pressure put on a wayward senator to get him to vote right; the painful, or pleasurable, little political deals that go on.

Like a senatorial Samuel Pepys, Biffle puts them all into his card index file in complete detail—for some future use he has not yet decided upon.

Magazines have offered him handsome sums for access to the material. Biffle (he rarely hears his first name) refuses. We managed to pry out of him one example of what is contained in the diary—provided no names were used.

On a certain day the senate took a three hour afternoon recess. It was near dinner time. Most of the senators went out to eat. One went for a drink or two and in an hour was well on edge. He bought a paper and from its columns read a story that enraged him.

"Where is the — who wrote that?" he stormed. Back in the cloak room he came upon Biff. "I'll get that man," he told Biff.

Later, when the senate resumed session, the senator again came upon Biff. To Biff's amazement he exhibited two pistols, one on each hip. He was determined to violate the freedom of the press in a big way.

Biff promised to find the reporter and did. He didn't tell him all the gruesome details but emphasized what a nasty scene might break out in public. Biff is a diplomat, and the newsmen trust him, so the reporter obligingly holed up for the night. By morning all had blown over. Biff says the senator isn't in office now.

Leslie Biffle is a slenderish, quickly-disposed fellow who has been working for the senate in one capacity or another ever since he left high school in 1913. He began as clerk to the late Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas. For a time he was superintendent of the folding room, where senatorial package mail is put together. From there, in 1925, he went to the senate floor as assistant secretary to what then was the Democratic minority.

Biff is painstaking and methodical about compiling his quaint record. He doesn't make a daily account. He jots down a brief note, then, at night, types a summary on a stiff card. He keeps two copies, one at the Capitol and one at home—just in case.

As majority secretary he helps the majority leader round up votes on important legislation. There are many other duties as well. Of necessity, he is taken into the confidences of dozens of senators.

That is a major reason why Biff keeps his diary so secret. Once, he showed a few cards to Senator Robinson. Robinson roared with glee at some of the entries.

Biff says some day—a long time from now—he may try to do something with the stuff. If he cut loose at this time the senatorial peace would be shattered for a generation.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

A fellow don't know what it means to be "encircled" until he's made some new year resolutions. The counter attack with pursuit sets in at once. I guess the only thing to do is to form an axis with somebody.

Congress meets tomorrow and spent yesterday yawning over those reports that the White House would demand severe economies. The president says he is determined to keep expenditure to nine billion dollars, or in other words down to a level of extravagance to which we have become accustomed.

What it looks like to me is a move to put us all back on the thrift standard if it takes our last dollars.

Harry Bridges spent the first days of 1940 recovering from his surprise at the decision of Dean Landis of Harvard finding that he isn't a red and never was a red. Came out of his daze as soon as somebody threw a bucket of water on him.

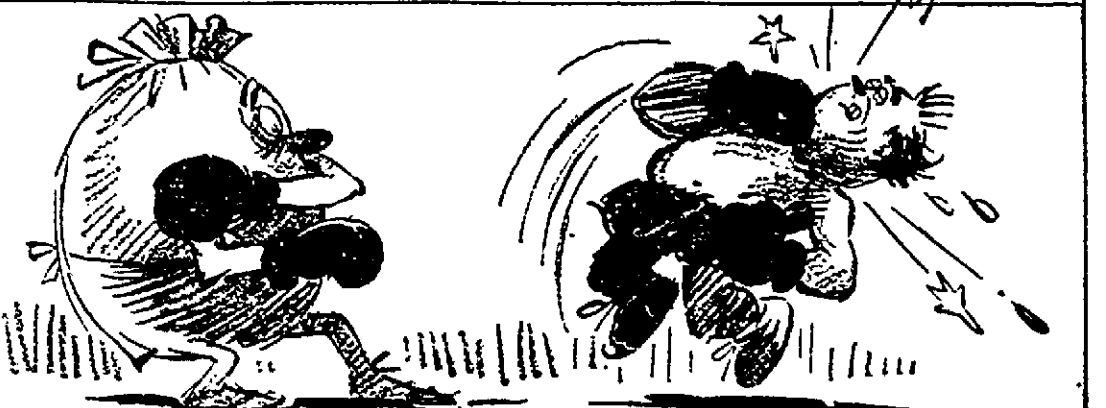

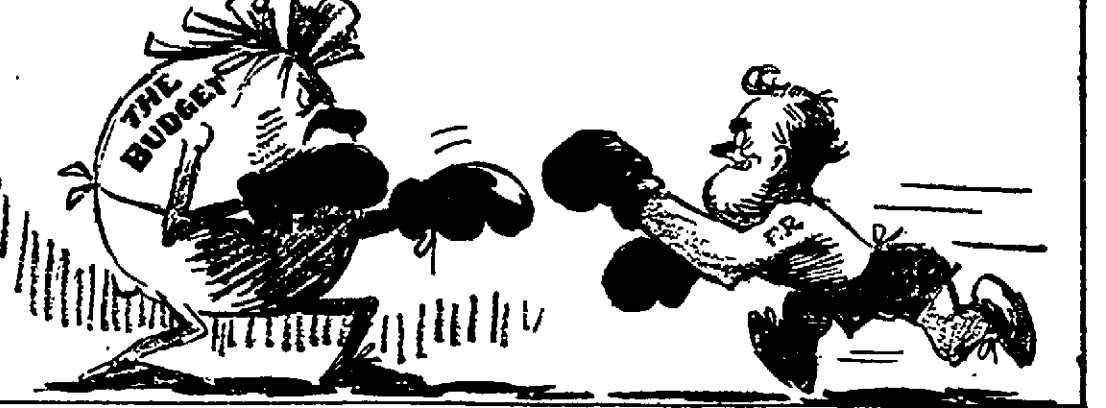

Million Dollars for Relief in Cleveland

Cleveland —(4)—This relief-plagued city of a million looked ahead today to at least 10 weeks without financial worry over its dependents.

A $1,000,000 appropriation by city council will take care of relief costs until the middle of March. Half the million will come from the state as matching funds.

The most recent crisis, early last month, forced the city to cut many of its 65,000 clients off relief entirely and sharply curtail aid to others. Full payments were restored Dec. 15 through funds raised by the sale of tax delinquency bonds.

DID SOMEONE IN THE BACK ROW YELL "FAKE!"?

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison—One of the most decisive, probably the determining factor in the transition from Progressive to Republican rule in Wisconsin in the last year, almost all observers are agreed, was the low level of the agricultural prices before the last election.

As one of the key figures of the defeated party often repeated after that blistering upheaval: "You can't beat nine cents cheese in Wisconsin."

That there were other factors cannot be doubted. But in view of what has happened, it is vital for a clear understanding of present day-state politics to observe the position of the market for Wisconsin agricultural produce. It is significant that today the farmer of Wisconsin is getting a return for his milk that at any other time in the last two years.

Around election time last year farmers received about $125 for their milk for all uses, and many of them, including the cheese farmers, were getting much less. At one time last fall prices fell below a dollar a cwt. in the big cheese areas. Today the average price is better than $1.50.

POLITICIANS WATCH

Few people will be naive enough to imagine that the result of the state election in any way affected that improvement. Increased consumer purchasing power arising out of industrial advances in the cities, poor pastureage in many parts of the country, the general inventory boom and possibly an improvement in the export market, are responsible.

But such developments always benefit the "ins" to the chagrin of the "outs", and state politicians today are acutely aware of the fact, and the possible effects on the spin of the political wheel in the next election.

HEIL AND PARTY

A few days ago this column contained a comment on Governor Heil's difficulties in the capitol, and the apparent absence of any positive support for his program from the Republican state party organization.

A leading Republican legislator thereupon suggested the possibility that the distance between the party headquarters and the executive may be deliberate.

Combine that with a report which this correspondent has heard once or twice, that Dr. Gullickson of the state committee is being urged to run for governor by some of his friends in local organizations, and some interesting speculation is suggested. That speculation, however, in this correspondent's opinion, will do little good for the Republican party at this juncture.

Note: Dr. Gullickson's picture adorned his Christmas greeting cards which were mailed all over the state last week. Some of the recipients have been so unkind as to suggest that they looked like campaign cards.

HIGHWAY INDEPENDENCE

Mr. August Frey, director of the research bureau, has been copiously quoted in capital dispatches lately about what he recommended to Governor Heil in the way of economies and retrenchments in the administration of the highway commission.

It ought to be remembered, however, that Heil can do nothing in that direction without the consent of the members of the commission, who have no reason to feel friendly toward the administration. The highway commission is completely

MYSTERY OF CANCER

More than forty years ago a laboratory was established by one of the largest States as an institution for the study of cancer, in conjunction with a hospital where citizens of the state might receive treatment for cancer. Of course the State's purpose in founding and conducting such well equipped and ably staffed institutions these forty years or more is to aid the fight against cancer and if possible to help solve the mystery of the cause of cancer and so bring about discovery of a cure or at least the most effective treatment.

Shortly after the opening of the laboratory and hospital a young doctor, fresh from several years of study in famous European universities, was taken under the wing of the distinguished teacher surgeon who had inspired the foundation of the institution and was chosen by the state as head man and set to work carrying out studies projected by the chief. The protégé, either from the spirit instilled in him in German universities or from an unfortunate complex, displayed toward undergraduates a certain snobbishness which made him unpopular—unlike his eminent chief, who always showed students every courtesy and friendly consideration. Yet in spite of the young doctor's manner the students all respected his mind.

Not long after his advent the brilliant young doctor electrified the medical world with the announcement that he had discovered the cause of cancer. He invited physicians to assemble in the amphitheatre of the medical school and listen to his recital of the story of the discovery and to see for themselves the organism, which he would demonstrate microscopically.

Long before the time for the demonstration the amphitheatre was crowded with doctors eager for the great news. It looked like a great moment in medical history. The young man's introductory remarks were delivered with plenty of atmosphere, not to say wind.

Finally the discoverer of the cause of cancer carefully set up a hanging drop preparation, focused the oil-immersion lens on it, found some typical organisms and invited the physicians to line up and have a look, but kindly make it brief so that as many as possible might enjoy the same privilege this evening.

Well, anyway, it was a wonderful build-up. Not that the young scientist was insincere. No question at all but that he honestly believed he had isolated the specific germ of cancer.

But, alas, no one else could see it. Not one of all the doctors present. Many of them specialists in histology, pathology, bacteriology, could see the putative cancer germ. The affair dissolved in the tender darkness of the night. Next day, and forever after, no one recalled it.

The young scientist resumed his laboratory work where he had left off. Cancer is as great a mystery today as it was fifty years ago.

Waupaca Boy Hurt During Chemicals Blast in Basement

Waupaca—Two youngsters, sons of prominent business men, spent a merry afternoon Saturday preparing a noise-maker. The bottled chemical exploded in the basement of the home of Billy Kissinger Saturday evening, filling his face and eyes with glass from the container. Some damage also was done to the basement. For a time it was thought Billy's condition might be serious.

His companion, 12-year-old Jimmy Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Peterson, with whom he had been experimenting with mixtures of chemicals, was not present when Billy put a live wire into the mixture. Billy, 15 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kissinger.

Mrs. Carl Handke, Wild Rose, is in a local hospital suffering from a brain concussion which occurred when the horse she was riding stumbled on the black top pavement throwing her to the ground. Mrs. Handke's husband teaches in the public schools of Wild Rose and the accident occurred almost directly in front of the school. It was the first time she had ridden the horse.

New Year's Party at Combined Locks Home

Combined Locks — Mr. and Mrs. Math Sprangers entertained at a New Year's party for Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smaxwill, Mr. Martin Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lamers and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bergbush, all of this village, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Berghuis, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Berghuis, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lamers, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Menting, Little Chute, and Mr. and Mrs. John Smaxwill and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burdecker of Appleton. Music, singing and cards provided the amusements for the evening. High at cards was won by Mrs. Herman Smaxwill. Lunch and refreshments were served.

Miss Patricia Scheerer left for Marinette Tuesday and was joined Friday by her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Scherer, sisters Mary and Barbara and brother John. They visited relatives and friends and returned home New Year's afternoon.

The state graded school will reopen Wednesday after the Christmas recess. Two of the schoolroom floors have been relaid, sanded and varnished during the last week.

Roosevelt Might Well Call Conclave to Speed Recovery

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—As the new decade opens, President Roosevelt could well start it off by calling business men and labor leaders here for a recovery conference.

I have seen many conferences come and go and leave nothing behind. I share the skepticism of the well-informed regarding the usefulness of the typical sweetness-and-light, let's-all-cooperate conference. Most such conferences are called only when conditions are badly out of hand, when a crisis exists, when the hard facts are too stubborn to handle. It takes more than such a conference to bring about a fundamental tide-turning. And when a conference is thus summoned to deal with an impossible assignment, it achieves nothing but several columns of newspaper space and prompt oblivion.

But we have no such gigantic turn-about to achieve now. The economic snow-ball is rolling. What primarily is needed is a little more team-play to help it along.

Industrial production in the last quarter of 1939 equalled the best quarter of 1937. There is your starting point. The machine is moving ahead, throbbing with energy equal to the best year that the good old days even knew.

Then why, you might ask, bother to do anything? Let me give you the other statistic. There are still 9,000,000 or so unemployed!

Those men, with their families, constitute a festering core of want in the midst of thriving business activity. Those 9,000,000 mean more federal relief expense, more state relief expense, more local relief expense. They provoke Ohio labor to call for army soup kitchens and cause Governor Bricker to tear his hair at the charge that relief is cut off so Ohio can balance its budget. These 9,000,000 unemployed stand as a haunting challenge.

Note these most significant figures issued by the American Federation of Labor in its well-known and carefully prepared monthly survey of business:

Shortening Of Work Week Helped Take Up Slack
In October, 1939, the federal reserve board index of industrial production stood at 118. There were 47,000,000 persons at work.

In October, 1939, the index stood at 120, two points higher. There were 44,000,000 persons at work—3,000,000 fewer.

There is the record of ten years of technological improvement. At the price of 3,000,000 workers displaced.

More than that. Ten years ago the average work-week was 50 hours. Now it is 40 hours. That shortening of the work-week took up some of the unemployment slack. The A. F. of L. estimates that if hours had not been reduced 6,000,000 would have been displaced instead of 3,000,000.

The present unemployment total of 9,000,000 is composed as follows: 3,000,000 displaced by technological improvements; 5,000,000 new workers added to the working population; 1,000,000 unemployed in 1929—total 9,000,000.

No one seriously advocates throwing out improved processes in order to make more work. Working hours can be shortened some—but there are limits to that.

Production Increase May Be Answer To Problem

The handiest way out is further increase in production. A level 25 per cent above 1929 would, the A. F. of L. estimates, give jobs to all. The big jump in recent production was in producers durable goods. Heavy industries took on 242,000 employees in October and November! Consumer goods production increased only slightly. Heavy industries hold the key. But those are the very ones which must work upon long-range schedules, and must have a considerable degree of certainty in prospect in order to undertake new work.

Let leaders in these industries meet here. Let Mr. Roosevelt call in, among others, Wendell Willkie, who is eloquently preaching tolerance and cooperation and who has a considerably better record in this respect than some other portions of the utility industry. And let the New Dealers pull in their horns.

If the Roosevelt administration can get this extra push out of industry now, if it can induce business to throw in that extra grunt that does the real work, then it can build

Plans for Athletic Field Grandstand to Be Ready This Week

Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer, said today that plans for the grandstand for Spencer field will be ready to be submitted to the state industrial commission this week.

Wickesberg and his staff are working on rough plans for the commission so that the work may be started as soon as possible. The grandstand will be built under the park WPA project with the WPA paying about half of the cost.

The engineer said the completed grandstand will cost about $27,000 although not all of the work will be done this year. The center section of the stand, with dressing rooms for players, showers and the heating plant will be built first, he said.

Player Rarely Makes Most of Defense Slips

BY ELY CULBERTSON
No player can gauge his own defensive ability until he comes up against an expert declarer. In the average catch-as-catch-can game, defensive errors, or even slight "slips," rarely come to light because the declarer just as rarely capitalizes them. Take today's hand, for example. The vulnerable slam was defeated, hence East-West probably will never know that their defense was bad and that it should have resulted in a fulfilled contract.

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 spade 2 diam. 2 spades 3 diam.
4 no trump Pass 5 spades Pass
6 spades Pass Pass Pass

The moment South received a free raise from his partner he determined to reach a slam, and I can't say that I blame him. Actually, North's raise, made directly over an intervening bid, was far from good, based as it was on virtually nothing but five trumps. A delayed raise would have been much better tactics.

West opened the diamond king and continued with the queen, East, high-lowing. Declarer ruffed and, apparently deciding that his fate hung squarely on the division of the heart suit, drew trumps and led three rounds of hearts, hoping that his fourth heart would "stand up" and permit him to discard a club from dummy. This fortunate break did not materialize, however, and he was forced to place himself by bawling out his partner for his "rotten" raise.

As a matter of fact, the contract was ice cold after the first two leads. All declarer had to do was ruff the second diamond, cash the ace-king of spades, dropping East's queen, enter dummy with a heart, ruff dummy's last diamond, cash the club ace, then lead his last trump to dummy's jack. Now dummy still would have two trumps, two hearts, and the club ten. East would be out of the running. Declarer would have the A-Q of hearts and the J-5 of clubs. West's holding would be the J-10-8 of hearts and the K-Q of clubs. Dummy would play a trump, South would discard a club, and West would let go the club queen. But now the lead of the last trump (South discarding the club jack) would ruin West. If he let go a heart all of declarer's hearts would be good; to discard the club king would establish dummy's club ten.

Thus, it will be seen, declarer passed up a glorious opportunity to fulfill his slam contract. But, by the same token, it was only thru the continuation of diamonds at the second trick that this opportunity was afforded. The defenders should have realized that, on the bidding, it was a hundred to one against declarer's having another diamond. To lead a second round and permit him to ruff would be in a case of this type, be playing directly into his hands. Usually it is not bad bridge to force the declarer to ruff, but in a hand such as this, in which dummy has a profusion of trumps, it is unwise to let the declarer make his own trumps separately, and then convert dummy into the master trump hand. If East had overtaken the diamond king and shifted to a club (the proper line of defense), or if West, after holding the diamond king, had shifted to a heart or a club, declarer never would have had a chance to use his own trumps on dummy's diamonds and thereby turn the play into a squeeze on West.

My Neighbor Says—

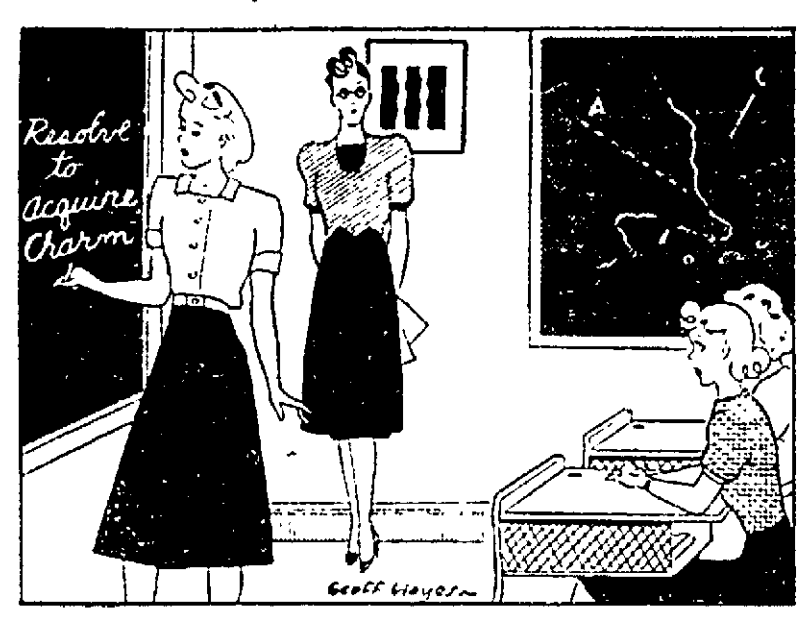

After a cyclamen is through blooming, water it only every three or four days. Let it dry and the leaves will fall off. When spring comes put it in the garden in the shade until August when it should be reported.

Sprinkle halves of grapefruit with one teaspoon of powdered sugar and a quarter of a teaspoon of butters. Decorate with mint leaves and a ball of cranberry sherbet.

When furniture knobs or handles become loose remove the bolts from the knobs and insert rubber washers similar to those used on water faucets. Replace the bolt. The knob will then be firmer.

Red and white or yellow and white checked dish towel makes very attractive and economical curtains for a kitchen. When they fade they can be used for towels and replaced with new ones.

Beauty and You

Charming habits are as important to one's personality as colorful accessories are to one's dress. A lovely voice used well, in nicely chosen words and graceful sentences, is one of the most compelling beauty assets a woman can possess. What comes through her lips is far more important than what color goes on her lips!

Nice manners speak of good breeding. They are sufficient introduction to the people worth knowing. It does help to read a reliable etiquette book but good manners should be inherent. If you think right good manners are unconscious. Selfishness, greed, intolerance, rudeness, snobbishness and thoughtlessness must be conquered if charming manners are to be attractively unconscious. That isn't an easy task but it is worth working at, every day in the year.

Sincerity of action is so rare in the majority of women that we earn the criticism men heap upon us. We do nice things for effect rather than because we sincerely want to do them. The sincere personality—dressed in the simplest of garb—always attracts, and earns the lasting affection of friends. What you do, do sincerely. Make your actions come from the heart. Otherwise be inactive! Tarfulness, or consideration, radiates in this world like Portia's candle. Long after you have forgotten the moment you were kind, a dividend of gratitude comes to your doorstep. But remember never to expect gratitude as reimbursement for your tact—sometimes it takes years for the person to realize how tactful you have been. The enjoyment you get for preventing ill feeling or unhappiness compensates you enough for the effort.

To be appreciative is to exercise charm. It is part of good manners. Present a pleasing and attractive person. Thorough grooming is essential to attractiveness. Even you react more quickly and favorably to the person who presents a clean and smiling countenance. They say cleanliness is next to godliness and it is not hard to believe. The clean tramp invites our sympathy, the unclean tramp invites disgust.

Be conscious of careful grooming, carry yourself with pride, and speak and act with understanding as well as assurance. Then your personality will radiate charm which is enviable wherever you encounter it. True beauty includes charming habits as everyday accessories to the personality you wear!

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME

Marie Schneider's Tested Recipes

HAPPY NEW YEAR
Happy New Year, Homemakers, and my every wish that 1940 will prove the happiest year you have ever experienced.

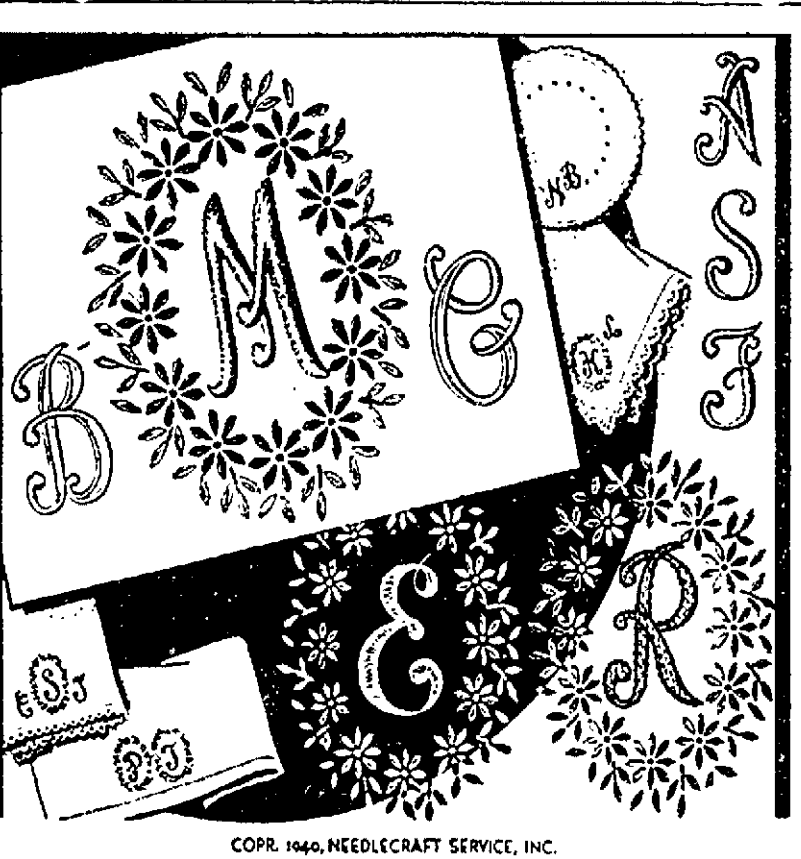

Resolutions seem in order, so this year let us resolve to put our best foot forward into the kitchen. Not for more pretentious or elaborate meals, but for well chosen, well cooked, satisfying as well as delicious foods.

Plan the family diet, remembering the mottoes of good nutrition. Among them are, "at least a pint of milk daily for every member of the family, preferably a quart for children," eggs all most daily for small children, several times a week for adults," citrus fruits several times a week.

Eggs, milk, fruit! That's the refrain in the kitchen, and how to make them like eggs, milk and fruit over and over again—that's your problem. One good way is to put these foods into a tempting dessert. These desserts are especially good for children but the grown-up members of your family will enjoy them as well.

- Orange Tapioca Cream
1 egg yolk
4 cups milk
1-2 cup quick cooking tapioca
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg white
1 teaspoon orange or vanilla flavoring
- 4 oranges, sections free from membrane
Mix egg yolk with small amount of milk in top of double boiler. Add tapioca, sugar, salt and remaining milk. Boil over rapidly boiling water for 10 to 12 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Remove from fire. Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold its shape. Fold hot tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Cool—mixture thickens as it cools. When slightly cool, stir in flavoring. Place few sections of orange in bottom of individual serving dishes and cover with tapioca mixture. Garnish with additional orange sections and whipped cream, if desired. Serves 8.
- Butterscotch Pudding
2 cup corn syrup (dark)
2 cups milk
1-3 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons cornstarch
4 tablespoons milk
14 teaspoon vanilla
14 tablespoon butter
- Scald the syrup and milk. Add butter, salt and cornstarch dissolved in the 4 tablespoons cold milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened, about 20 minutes. Add vanilla, mould and chill. Serve with sweetened cream.
- Baked Custard
2 cups hot milk
2 eggs
4 tablespoons sugar
Pinch salt
- Beat eggs slightly, add salt and sugar and stir until the sugar dissolves. Then pour milk gradually into eggs. If desired, a little nutmeg or 1 teaspoon flavoring may be added. Pour into buttered cups or a pudding dish, place the cups in a pan of hot water, put the pan in a moderate oven and bake 20 to 30 minutes.

Children Should Memorize Fine Pieces of Literature

BY ANGELO PATRI
Part of every child's preparation for life should be the memorizing of fine pieces of poetry and prose. When the mind is stored with fine thoughts, phrased in beautiful words, the emergencies of life can be met in better grace and stronger spirit. Store the children's minds with gay verse, comforting psalms, the finest bits of our splendid literary inheritance and you help them to lay by riches that cannot be lost or stolen from them. You help them to build up a reserve of courage and faith and hope that no emergency can shake.

I like to begin with Mother Goose. These old verses are distilled wisdom. Study them over in the light of your experience and see whether that is not true. The easy rhymes and rhythm make learning a simple matter of listening and repeating. In this way the children learn good words and add them to their vocabulary as easily as they breathe.

After Mother Goose come the easy poems of Stevens, Field and Reilly. After that the world of literature is wide open. I think that all children profit by learning the Ten Commandments, the Twenty-third and the Ninety-first Psalms, the Beatitudes and the Thirteenth Chapter of First Corinthians.

They all should recite the Gettysburg address, the words of the Star Spangled Banner, America and America the Beautiful, and the Lord's Prayer. And through the school years they should be learning such pieces and many others that please them.

The children learn words easily and repeat them correctly with great pleasure when they are between the ages of five and seven, roughly measured. They continue to memorize easily until they are well past twenty when it is not as easy. The method of learning changes as they approach these years, and they depend more on content than on accuracy. The time for accuracy, which is important, is the earlier span.

We do not ask the children to memorize these pieces just to have them recite publicly. They need never recite before an audience for that matter. The important point is that they learn these pieces of good literature to acquire the essence of experience and beauty that is in them. We hope to enrich their minds, their thinking and behavior, and we hope, too, to enable them to meet a crisis in their lives with more serenity and surety by having such thoughts to rely on.

One learning is not enough. These pieces must be reviewed steadily. Nothing is easier for children than to forget. They learn rapidly and many of them forget as rapidly. Many repetitions are necessary to fix the lines in memory. Once fixed they stay forever.

Don't make the lives of children miserable by forcing them to recite. If they like to do so we are that much ahead because each recitation helps fix the memory. Forcing them to recite makes them hate the whole business, and we really want them to hold to this old-fashioned idea in education. Like many old-fashioned things it is good.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

Dix Outlines Different Types Of Boys, Gives Their Ratings

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—We were interested in your classification of the different types of girls and their matrimonial ratings. Now please give us the different types of boys and their ratings. A GROUP OF GIRLS.

Answer:
Well, to begin with, there is Handsome, with soulful eyes and wavy hair, which may have been the gift of God or merely acquired at the beauty shop. He is dangerous only to very young girls and middle-aged women who fall for him like ripe wheat before the scythe. The in-between women are immune to him because he seldom has an idea under his curls and is generally sickeningly vain.

He is a bad matrimonial risk because he will spend his time posing around before mirrors instead of working. He will monopolize all of the family's clothes budget and let his wife go dowdy. His wife will pass her days fighting off other women and she will have to go through life listening to people say behind her back: "What on earth do you suppose made that handsome man marry that frumpy little woman?"

There is the lad who is the Great Lover. He believes himself irresistible to women and that he has a faultless sentimental technique. So five minutes after you have met him he goes into his act. He will ask you, in a voice surcharged with wonder and pathos, where you have been all this time that he has never met you before. Then he will mention your different features in laudatory terms and wind up by assuring you that, though this may seem to you sudden, he is deathlessly in love with you because he realizes that in you he has found his ideal that he has long sought.

Matrimonially, the Great Lover rates along with the cat-and-dog steaks. Fun for a brief whirl, if you can afford to lose what you put in, but not to be considered for a permanent investment. For the man who fancies himself as a lovermaker will never confine his talents to home work. He will always be hunting up a new audience before whom to display his gifts.

There is the Egotist, the chap whose whole interest in life is himself, whose sole topic of conversation is how good-looking and smart and wonderful he is and how much everybody admires him. Every girl he meets is trying to marry him. Every employer is on his knees offering him a marvelous job at a fabulous salary. And the only reason he isn't president of the United States is because he doesn't care for politics. I'd rate the Egotist as a sub-zero in the matrimonial market, because being bored to death is such a lingering and painful way to pass out. Chief among the martyrs are the wives who have had to listen to their windbag husbands talk about themselves for thirty or forty years at a stretch.

There is the Lout, the boy who considers good manners and a chivalrous attitude toward women excess baggage. He thinks he is being witty when he says rude and insulting things to girls. He criticizes them to their faces and tells them what he thinks of their clothes and their hair-dos and that they look like heck in their new hats. He stands girls up on engagements and gets a kick out of knowing that they are spending the evening at home all dolled up waiting in vain for him.

The Lout makes the kind of husband who, in the lower brackets, beats his wife and kicks her around and, in the higher brackets, says things to her that stab her to the heart and make her wonder why she was fool enough ever to invest a single nickel in him.

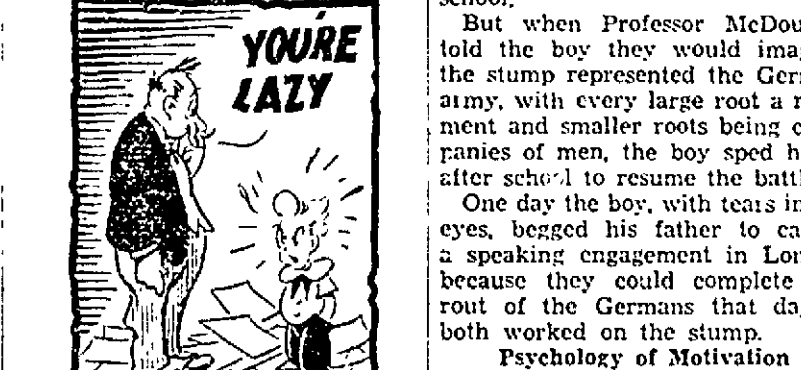

There is the Fresh Guy who thinks that every girl should pay for a 5-cent soft drink with $5 worth of petting. And there is the Tightwad who eats at a girl's house and rides in her car and goes to places where she buys the tickets, but who never spends a cent on her. And there is the Patronizer who looks down on all women and decides their intelligence. All of these rate minutes at 325 degrees F. until the custards are firm in the center. Test with a knife, if the knife comes out clean, the custard is done.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Jack's case is a beautiful example of a common conflict between son and father. They simply have different interests and different goals. Jack probably thinks his father is dull and stupid for not growing enthusiastic about Jack's newspaper, while the father calls Jack lazy for not relishing the father's work. We must understand the child's viewpoint in order to motivate him properly. Healthy children are never lazy.

CASE P-144: Jack S., aged 11, is the son of a Chicago banker. "I think my son is just naturally lazy," his father protested irritably. "He simply will not work. I've taken him to my office on Saturday so he could help out and thus make a little spending money. "But he will work for a few minutes and then get distracted by something else. I'll come back and find him drawing pictures or trying to operate the mimeograph machine. "In fact, I left him for a couple of hours one morning with 250 letters to seal, stamp and put in the mail. When I returned there were still 210 letters to be sealed, stamped, and mailed. Do you know what he had been doing? "He had obtained a couple of stencils from one of the girls on which he had tried to type some news items about his pals at school. He had also drawn some crude cartoons of his classmates. Then he had run off several hundred copies, which he had clipped together to make a school newspaper. "Dr. Crane, I simply am at my wit's end. How can I get my boy to work? Don't you think he is just naturally lazy?"

DIAGNOSIS: If children are in normal health, they are not lazy. True, they may dawdle away valuable time doing things which we adults consider nonsense. But they are not lazy. If we take Webster's definition of that word as meaning "disinclined to action or labor."

Healthy children are actually bubbling over with energy, so they are more "inclined to action or labor" than are adults, providing that action fits into their immediate goals or desires.

Send a long, self-addressed envelope with a dime for printing costs if you wish my "Test For Fathers." It helps us men get the child's viewpoint.

The Wife Is Invited Alone

Dear Mrs. Post: We are under social obligations to a man and his wife. But since we went to dinner at their house, my husband and the other man have had a business rift, which makes it awkward for me to invite the other man to our house. In fact, my husband forbids it. I would like to show the wife, however, that I am not socially ignorant. Is there anything I can do to return their hospitality when I can't invite them to a return dinner?

Answer: Invite the wife to a woman's lunch party and seat her on your right to show her especial honor.

Marking Playing Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Whose initials should be used to mark a set of playing cards that are to be given to a husband and wife together?

Answer: Usually you mark them with the initials of the given names combined with the initial of their last name. Or—why not mark the cards of one color with the husband's initials and those of the contrasting color with the wife's initials?

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "An Etiquette Stamp." Often There Are No "At Home" Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm writing my wedding invitations because we are inviting very few people. There is a long list, however, for the wedding announcements, with which we are enclosing an "at home" card. I was wondering if this same "at home" card may be enclosed with the personal note of invitation.

Answer: Properly they should be enclosed only with engraved invitations or announcements. As a matter of fact, this intimate group of wedding guests to whom we are going to invite, let them know where you are going to have it. If they don't, they can easily find out.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: Murder, not suicide, is Michael's verdict. Also, Mrs. Murchison is a bigamist. Devotee her first husband, Murchison bought the diamonds to cover Marie's theft of them. War-veteran Smith tells Michael he saw Murchison buying an ear-lock.

Chapter 42
The Hairpin

Several hours later, on the afternoon of the same day, Tuck stood looking out of a window in the living room overlooking the Horse-shoe. A car drove up to the Devoe door, and Mrs. Murchison accompanied by Jared Devoe came out of the house and drove away.

"Bunny," she exclaimed, "He's gone. Jared Devoe, I mean."

Bunny looked up from the needlepoint chair cover she was working at. "Well, Tuck?"

"Don't you see? It's all right—let's go out and hunt for your Creeping Man, Bunny! Out where you saw him, the other night! Maybe he had a ladder, and came up

Bunny laid down her work and crossed her hands over her knee. She looked up at Tuck with a hint of pain in the clear gray eyes. "I don't know what to think, dear. Michael's awfully clever, and awfully decent. He wouldn't talk that way to me about Duncan unless he had some basis for it. He never talks like that without a reason. But honestly, looking at Duncan, listening to him talk, can you believe that he is the... the friend who is running wild here?"

"No," said Tuck promptly. "I cannot. I don't think Michael's telling fibs, but I think he's mistaken. I think he's prejudiced, for the first time since I've known him. So, let's go ourselves, Bunny, and find out what we can... if we can find out anything, I'll go to Father. For—er with it if Michael won't listen."

"Michael would listen. He is fair minded, lamb. I don't want to admit it, but I must."

"Bunny," Tuck said, her eyes on the geraniums blooming in the window boxes, "are you in love with Duncan?"

Sunny frowned. "I don't know," she said, as if they were discussing a remote question. "I don't honestly know. I could have been, I suppose, if I'd seen more of him. I'm all upset and sort of miserable these days because it seems as if it's no use having faith in human nature any longer if that nice boy turns out to be a dreadful criminal. I didn't see very much of him, Tuck."

"No. Well, I like him. I'd like you to marry him. You make a lovely looking couple, both of you so tall, and his eyes so blue, and his hair so wavy, and his shoulders so broad, and you slim and gray-eyed and black-haired and generally darling."

Bunny laughed in spite of herself, and jumped up to give Tuck a hug. "You are a lamb," she said. "I feel better. Do we go to the woods then?"

"Feeling quite sure," said Tuck seriously, in a lowered tone, "that the real villain of the piece, as yet unmasked, has gone away—I'm not afraid to go. What could he do to us, anyway? Nothing?"

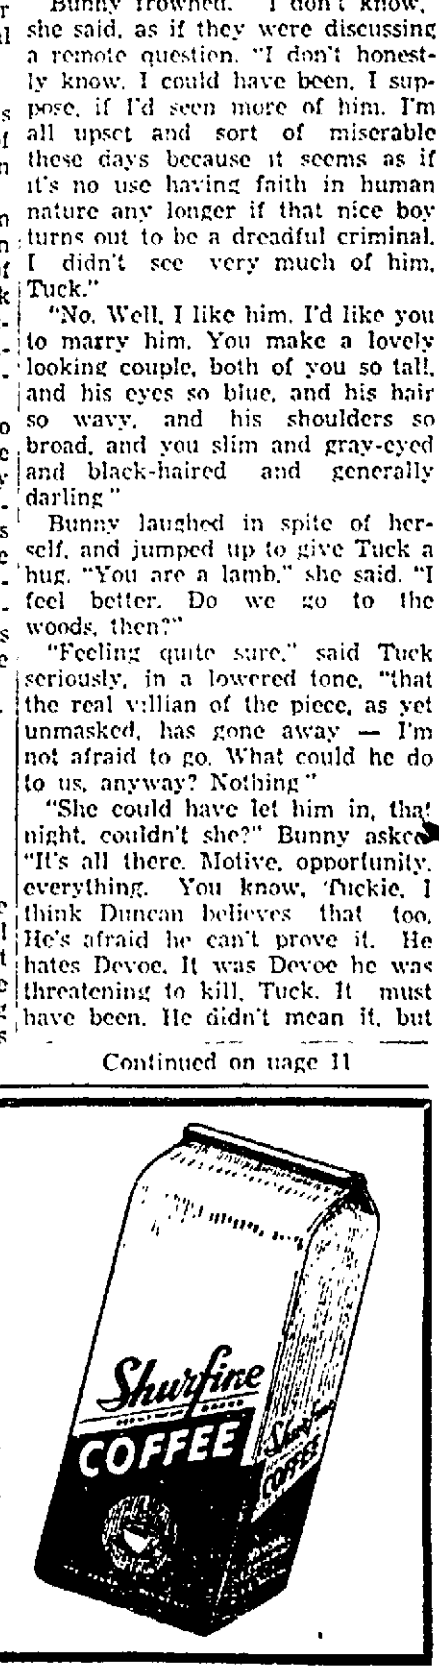

"She could have let him in, that night, couldn't she?" Bunny asked. "It's all there. Motive, opportunity, everything. You know, Dickie, I think Duncan believes that, too. He's afraid he can't prove it. He hates Devoe. It was Devoe he was threatening to kill, Tuck. It must have been. He didn't mean it, but

Board to Vote On Courthouse Issue Tomorrow

Supervisors Will Decide Whether Referendum Will be Held

The Outagamie county board of supervisors will meet in special session at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to consider a referendum on the construction of a new courthouse.

The special session was called after a petition requesting it had been signed by 29 supervisors, two more than the required 27 majority.

The petition asks for the meeting to decide whether ordinances enacted for the construction of the new building "be deferred and postponed and that a referendum be submitted to the voters for their approval or disapproval of the same."

The petition was circulated and signed by the 29 supervisors late in December, less than a month after the board had voted to build a new $525,000 courthouse through a $385,000 bond issue with the addition of $140,000 in the courthouse trust fund.

Opposition to the proposal was led by Supervisor John Bottensack of Dale. He said at that time he would favor a referendum.

Following the board's action, a building committee was named. The committee met with architects last week and discussed plans for the new structure.

pires next June, easily may become the most bitter of all. A sizable group of Democrats may join with Republicans to demand it be overhauled or eliminated.

In the field of labor, numerous demands were developing for revision of the Wagner labor act—especially since both the American federation of labor and the C. I. O. have suggested changes.

After reading his annual message on the state of the nation about 1 p. m. (C. S. T.) tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt will send his budget estimates to congress on Thursday. During the latter part of the week, senate leaders hope to dispose of many minor bills held over from the 1939 session.

The session will provide a sounding board for a number of active or potential presidential candidates in both houses. Close friends of Vice President Garner, however, predicted he would be publicly silent and privately active as a candidate.

Garner himself told reporters he would have no comment on politics the weather or any other subject they might mention. He arrived from his Uvalde, Texas, home yesterday after a series of hunting expeditions.

City Still Waits For Real Snowfall

Sunshine and Blue Skies Greet the New Year's Second Day

People who got stik for Christmas began wondering today if maybe they hadn't better exchange them for roller skates. Anyone who didn't know where the mercury stood and disregarded the bare trees could have been convinced, by looking out the window, that it was mid-September instead of the second day of the new year.

Bright sunshine, cloudless skies and snowless ground added another day to the freakish spell. There was no snow as far north as Menominee and Marinette, where old-timers couldn't remember it ever happening before.

"More or less cloudiness tonight and Wednesday, continued cold" was the Milwaukee bureau's outlook for the state in general. At 1:15 this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent bureau registered 18 above, the maximum yesterday. The coldest reading during the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning was six above, at 7 o'clock today, Miami, Fla., with 71, and Bismarck, N. D., with 24 below zero, were the hottest and coldest places respectively in the nation yesterday.

Conduct Hearing On Price of Milk In Appleton Area

Department Representatives Interview Producers, Dealers

A hearing on milk prices in the Appleton and Neenah-Menasha market opened shortly after 10 o'clock this morning in the courtroom and ended at 12:30 this afternoon.

Representatives of the state department of agriculture and markets and about 75 milk producers and dealers of the area involved attended the hearing, held to take "evidence" on which the department will base its milk price orders.

Conducting the hearing were Verlyn F. Sears, chief in charge of milk control of the state department; Gilbert F. Lappley, counsel; and Elmo Eke, economist and statistician.

The producers and dealers came up singly to answer questions asked by the state department representatives, and to express their opinions concerning the milk price structure.

Sears said that evidence taken at today's hearing will be prepared and studied by the department in setting up the price structure in the Appleton and Neenah-Menasha market.

J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent, was present at the hearing and assisted the state department representatives. Although the official hearing ended at 12:30 this afternoon, there was considerable informal discussion afterwards among the dealers, producers, and department representatives.

Similar hearings are being held throughout the state.

Committee to Study Government's Offer On Federal Building

Consideration of the federal government's offer to sell the old post office on Oneida street to the city will be made by members of the public grounds and buildings committee of the common council at a meeting in city hall this afternoon.

It has been suggested that the building might be remodeled and be used as a police station. The committee is to investigate the feasibility of the plan and report to the council Wednesday night.

Purchase of the federal building has been before the council before, the most seriously when aldermen considered buying it for a city hall. It was turned down and the Lincoln school was remodeled instead.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The street and bridge committee was scheduled to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to consider requests for various street improvements. The committee's report will be submitted at a council meeting Wednesday night.

Uruguay Ponders 'Destination' of Interned Vessel

Officials May Decide To Beach German Freighter Tacoma

Montevideo—(U)—With Uruguay's miniature navy on guard against any break for freedom by the interned German freighter Tacoma, Uruguayan officials today planned her "ultimate destination"—conceivably beaching of the 8,266-ton vessel.

Captain Hans Know submitted yesterday to internment of his ship at expiration of a Uruguayan ultimatum which had confronted the Tacoma with a choice of taking to sea in the face of British warships or becoming a prisoner for duration of the European war.

(A Berlin dispatch said the German minister to Uruguay protested today on behalf of the vessel against internment of the Tacoma.)

The port tugboat La Valiente, with 20 naval seamen aboard, laid alongside the Tacoma through the night and a naval officer kept watch aboard to see that the Tacoma's engines remained silent. With him on the ship were the captain and crew of 60.

The Tacoma's radio equipment was dismantled as a further guarantee against a break for the open sea.

Will Dock Ship

Foreign Minister Alfredo Guani said the Tacoma would be moved from her anchorage just inside the Montevideo breakwater to a dock within the next two days, pending a decision on what he characterized as her ultimate destination.

He did not elaborate on this point nor would the port authority expand on an earlier statement that the merchantman would be beached.

Without any show of resistance such as the self-destruction of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee Dec. 17, the Tacoma was interned yesterday on the grounds that she acted as an auxiliary for the Graf Spee during an "act of war."

The freighter had picked up crewmen of the battleship when Captain Hans Langsdorff dynamited her in the shallow River Plate estuary rather than accept internment, or take his damaged ship to sea to face British cruisers which had driven the Graf Spee into refuge here.

The behavior of the freighter, according to the reasoning of Uruguayan officials, made the Tacoma liable to the same rules of neutrality as the Graf Spee. Allied diplomatic pressure on Uruguay had been constant.

To Be Sent To Interior

The Tacoma had steamed from a point just off shore to anchorage just within the outer breakwater when 50 Uruguayan marines boarded her yesterday morning in advance of an official party bearing internment papers to be filled out and signed.

Once the papers were signed, Captain Know and his men were given two days in which to wind up shipboard affairs before they are sent into the Uruguayan interior to live until the end of the war—just as about 1,000 seamen from the Graf Spee were treated at Buenos Aires.

Captain Langsdorff of the Graf Spee, who had accompanied his men on barges to the Argentine capital, however, cheated internment by shooting himself.

If the Tacoma is still here Wednesday she may see entry of one of the Graf Spee's conquerors, the Cruiser Ajax. Great Britain has applied for her entry on a "courtesy visit."

The Ajax and Achilles were the cruisers which finally drove the Graf Spee into Montevideo but it was the Ajax and the cruiser Shropshire which were believed to have remained off the River Plate estuary while the Tacoma case was being settled.

Kansas City Cuts Motor Fatalities by Two-Thirds

Kansas City—(U)—A decade ago Kansas Citizens paid an average of 100 lives a year to operate their automobiles.

Then an aroused citizenry learned "traffic deaths need not be the cost of operating motor cars" and saved 166 lives in five years, 1935 through 1939.

There were only 32 deaths in the year just ended. In 1931 autos killed 104 persons. In 1934 the toll was 97. That year the Kansas City safety council adopted a five-year program to stop the sacrifice to speed, drunken driving and carelessness.

"Cut traffic deaths 10 each year and save 150 lives." It appealed to newspapers, radio, civic clubs, school children—to everyone able to walk or drive—to cooperate.

The program worked 100 per cent in 1935, when there were 87 deaths, and even better the next year with a drop to 75. But autos slaughtered 71 persons in 1937 and 69 in 1938.

Then the safety council appealed to police to "crack down." The police—and police judges—did. Traffic fines totaled only $12,000 in the first 11 months of 1938. They were $105,900 in the same 1939 period, on approximately the same number of tickets issued.

Personal injury accidents were cut from 1,501 in 1938 to 1,133; property damage accidents from 3,373 to 3,136 and total accidents from 4,874 to 4,269 in this city of 400,000 population.

For this successful campaign the multi-colored pin-studded charts, newspapers, radio, literature, personal correspondence, sales talks and other efficiency devices of big business were recruited.

It Is Said--

An Appleton man who received an electric razor for Christmas almost gave up in disgust when he tried to shave with it. Christmas day he tried to shave but failed to clip his whiskers efficiently. He remembered that it takes practice to become used to the new method so he tried it again the next day, and the next day. Still no results. About the time he was ready to throw the shaver into the ash can, a friend let him in on a little secret. He had been shaving with a razor from which the guard protecting the head had not been removed.

Menasha—St. Mary's High school cagers will attempt to score their ninth straight victory of the season next Sunday when they play the basketball team from St. Benedict the Moor Colored High school of Milwaukee at St. Mary's gymnasium. The game recently was added to the schedule.

The Zephyrs scored a decisive 36 to 28 victory over Manitowish school at Manitowish Friday night for their eighth straight victory. Previously the Zephyrs had edged a 22 to 21 decision over Manitowish but after the first quarter last week the Zephyrs had the game under control. They held a 17 to 9 edge at the half and were ahead 28 to 18 at the third quarter. When Manitowish rallied in the fourth quarter William Resch counted four points in the final minute to make the Zephyr advantage decisive.

Resch was the leading scorer in the game with 12 points followed by Johnson with 10. Schuller added three baskets and Griesbach added three. Both teams made 11 field goals but the Zephyrs counted 12 free throws and Manitowish made only six. The Zephyrs were charged with 11 fouls to 14 for Manitowish.

Hold High Average

The Zephyrs maintained their average of better than 32 points a game Friday. They have scored 104 field goals and 50 free throws for 260 points in eight games.

The Zephyr defense has held opponents to an average of 19 points a game. Opponents have averaged seven field goals and five free throws per game, counting 57 baskets and 39 free throws for 153 points.

Farnham Johnson still holds the individual scoring lead with 78 points and 27 field goals and 24 free throws. William Resch has scored more field goals but failed to get as many free throws. Resch has 70 points on 29 field goals and 12 free throws.

Museum Preserves Records of Early Winnebago Boat Travel

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh—Gone but not forgotten are the colorful days when steamboats plied the waters of Winnebago county and furnished local residents of the time with an efficient means of transportation and many years of pleasant recreation.

Not only do these "good old days" still live in the memory of the "old timers," but they are carefully preserved in documentary form among the files of the Oshkosh Public Museum.

According to museum records, the earliest steamboat to appear above the rapids of the lower Fox was the "Peytonia," built by a Neenah stock company during the winter of 1830. She was a side-wheeler 85 feet long with a 16-foot beam. Brought to Green Bay and later De Pere, it was hauled ashore, the upper works torn off and the hull cut in two.

Lack of locks on the Fox at the time necessitated that the "Peytonia" be hauled around the rapids to Menasha where it was assembled and put back into the water again. The early steamer made regular trips between Menasha and Fond du Lac, touching at Oshkosh each time.

Cut In Two By Ice

The boat met a tragic end when Captain Enos Drummond attempted to take her to New London one spring before the ice was out. The hulls cut the boat in two but the crew escaped safely. Though not speedy she was a sea-worthy old ship and churned the water up to ten miles an hour.

In 1858 a stock company was formed for building a boat suitable for Lake Winnebago passenger travel. The result was the "Menasha," said to be the finest steamer

Neenah Building Industry in 1939 Has Banner Year

All-Time Records Established in Construction Business

Neenah—The final year of the last decade, the '30s, gave Neenah its banner year in construction. All-time records in the building industry were established in 1939, including home construction, estimated building valuation and the number of permits.

The total estimated value of building in Neenah during 1939 reached $451,332, which exceeds that of any year since 1931 and is more than $58,700 over that of 1938. Construction valuation during 1939 totaled $372,631.

The most remarkable record established was in the construction of new dwellings, and an all-time mark was set in that division of the industry, 82 new homes having been constructed during 1939. The number of new homes last year exceeded that of the preceding year, 19, and the valuation of new homes constructed during 1939 amounted to $300,040 in comparison to $231,445, an increase of $68,595.

908 Permits Issued

According to the records of John Elenker, assistant city building inspector, 908 permits, including all types of construction, electrical, plumbing and sewer, and heating and signs, were granted during 1939 as compared to 729 during the previous year. There were 255 building permits issued last year in comparison to 219 during the preceding year.

The new high in building valuation during 1939 was attained despite a slight decrease in construction estimates during December of last year in comparison to the last month of 1938. The decline amounted to $2,025. The cost of construction during December of last year totaled $21,775 in comparison to $22,800 during 1938's last month. December of 1939, however, held its own in home construction when six new dwellings were built, the same number as December, 1938.

During eight of the 12 months of last year, the value of construction exceeded that of the corresponding months of 1938 one month was practically equal, and the other three were lower.

Totals for 1939 and 1938 respectively are as follows: January $9,450 and $50; February $14,745 and $5,150; March $6,625 and $17,475; April $41,420 and $28,130; May $66,695 and $34,150; June $30,915 and $30,974; July $37,453 and $18,345; August $32,410 and $106,312; September $29,593 and $29,535; October $75,373 and $40,425; November $64,875 and $38,285; and December $21,775 and $23,800.

Show Wide Range

The cost of the various dwellings erected during 1939 ranged from $800 to $30,000, and this doesn't include heating, plumbing, electricity and other equipment. Nineteen of the new homes constructed cost $2,500 and under, while 22 were $3,000 and under, and 13 were from $3,000 to and including $3,500. There were 15 homes which cost from $3,500 to $4,000 and seven from $4,000 to $5,000. Four cost more than $5,000.

Thirty homes were erected in the fourth ward last year in comparison to 18 in 1938 and 10 were constructed in the Fifth ward last year and 13 the previous year.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throats and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This you make a full pint of really splendid medicine as you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Drunken Driving Arrests in Sharp Rise at Menasha

Police Chief Reports Increase of 14 Violators in Annual Report

Menasha — Arrests for drunken driving showed a decided increase in Menasha during 1939 as compared with 1938, according to the annual report of Police Chief Alex Slomski to the fire and police commission. During the last year there were 40 arrests for drunken driving while in the preceding year there were only 26.

Total arrests during the year were 273, a slight decrease from 1938 when there were 276 and from 1937 when there were 299. Speeding was the leading cause for arrest with 59 convictions followed by 40 drunken driving arrests. There were 26 arrests for drunkenness. Vagrancy charges resulted in 25 convictions while 24 persons were fined for going through arterial stop signs.

The number of burglaries and larcenies reported in the city during the year also showed a decrease. There were seven larcenies and eight burglaries reported, a total of 15 during the preceding year there were 31 burglaries and 31 larcenies reported.

Other leading causes for arrest during the year were reckless driving 17, disorderly conduct 16, drunkenness and disorderly conduct 12, going through stop and go lights 8, common drunk 5, and four each for auto theft, larceny and violations of the electrical ordinance.

Other Arrests

There were two arrests on each of the following charges: Operating an automobile without a driver's license, operating an automobile without proper license, lewd and lascivious conduct, parking in a bus stop, and violations of the ordinance forbidding all-night parking.

There were 17 other single causes for arrest, including burglary, rape, entering with intent to commit larceny, operating a car without the owner's consent, violation of the fireworks ordinance, non-support, operating an unlicensed vehicle, abandonment, assault and battery, hit and run driving, grand larceny, forcery, illegal operation of a vehicle, leaving the scene of an accident, overtime parking, forcing a receipt, and disregarding an officer's signal.

Travels 38,000 Miles

The squad car traveled 38,835 miles during the year. Driver's tests were given to 198 persons by Traffic Officer Lawrence Jakowski. Transients housed totaled 53. Bicycle licenses issued totaled 1,541. There were 75 ambulance calls.

Police Chief Slomski expressed his appreciation to the mayor, council and police and fire commission in his report for their cooperation. He also complimented the members of the force for the performance of their duties and thanked them for the extra hours of work.

The report for December showed 27 arrests, including 11 for drunkenness, four for drunken driving, two each for going through arterial, speeding, disorderly conduct, reckless driving, and parking in a bus stop. Overloading a vehicle and overtime parking resulted in one arrest each.

The department took care of 87 complaints and property valued at $765 was returned to the owners. Merchant's doors were found open on 10 occasions. Three larcenies were reported. Menasha Firemen Put Out Flames in Attic Menasha—The Menasha fire department made its first run of 1940 this morning to the residence of Mrs. Ed Bramer, 649 Manitowish street, to fight an attic fire. The blaze, which may have started from an over-heated or defective chimney, had a good start before the alarm was turned in.

Damage probably will amount to several hundred dollars. The entire ceiling of one bedroom was burned and the roof also was damaged. Firemen battled the blaze for an hour and a half and used two 1 1/2 inch lines. Flames already were coming through the roof when the department arrived.

The last run of 1939 was made at 9 o'clock Sunday morning to the Howard residence, 508 First street. A chimney fire was the cause.

Menasha Police Chief Reports Quiet New Year

Menasha—New Year observance in Menasha was quiet according to Police Chief Alex Slomski. No accidents were reported in the city.

WOMAN KILLED

Lansing, Iowa—(P)—Mrs. C. O. Kintz, 64 years old, was killed and her husband was injured seriously in a collision last night after a fire blew out while their car was descending a steep grade on a highway here.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

You can't blame him for saying it. He doesn't know the truth, and he thinks that woman is his sister-in-law, and—she paused—“he hates her too, in spite of what they're trying to make out. I'm sure of that much.”

They reached the garden gate, and stood hesitantly there, behind them the house and security; before them the dark woods, but, perhaps, the unraveling of a secret.

Dark Woods

At the moment, Charlotte Jean came running down the path.

“Mrs. Forrester, ma'am, you gave me quite a start, indeed you did,” said Mr. Michael said that it was to keep my eye on you, and if you started off into the woods, like I was to tell you to come back.”

Tuck's eyes were round and innocent. “But why, Charlotte Jean? It's perfectly safe now.”

The two girls went on down the path, reached the fork where the fainter trail turned off toward the river and followed it. The woods were dark and full of mysterious shadows; Tuck jumped off the path, when a rabbit hopped out of the underbrush.

“I don't have the slightest idea what I'm afraid of,” she whispered, “but the place gets me. Oh!”

“What is it?”

“Tuck put her hand over Bunny's. ‘Something moved... I saw something there, in the shadows... it moved against the light... just ahead in that clump of trees. There!’ She clutched Bunny's arm as she spoke. ‘Don't you see?’”

Bunny did not need to answer, for just as Tuck spoke the figure in the shadows resolved itself into Dr. McBain, wandering along the path toward them, head down, pipe in his mouth. He looked up quickly and was obviously as startled to see them as they had been to see him.

“I hope I didn't startle you,” he said in a moment.

“I'm afraid you did,” Tuck's voice was shaky. “It's such a eerie sort of place, and we weren't looking for anyone to be here.”

“Eerie!” I'm afraid I hadn't noticed it. I come here frequently to think out any problem that comes up.” He looked at them kindly, and yet inquiringly. “You're both pale,” he said sharply. “I suppose it's this air of mystery and terror surrounding us. My wife is really ill with it all.”

“It's been awful, hasn't it?” Tuck said. “I thought Mrs. McBain couldn't we well. She looked dreadfully pale yesterday.”

“I'm glad she isn't living as close to it as you are,” he said, tapping his pipe on his boot heel. “Your husband is working hard. I suppose I haven't had a long talk with him for several days.” He dropped his voice. “I sincerely hope he is making headway,” he said.

“I think he is. He's down town working this morning. He doesn't tell us very much, you know. It's a very complicated business.”

McBain's face was stern. “It is that,” he agreed heavily. “We shall be more than glad when it is cleared up. It is terrible—terrible. I do not... oh, I shouldn't say that. I did not believe that Dr. Murchison could possibly be dead. I am beginning to change my opinion.” He drew a deep breath. “Oh well, I mustn't burden you with my feelings. I'm thankful that it's Mr. Forrester, and not I, who has to deal with it. He is a very keen lad. I noticed how very cleverly he concealed his real knowledge at the inquest, regarding Miss Lissey's last talk with you. No one who didn't know... or who hadn't suspected the truth... would have guessed that he didn't tell all he knew.”

“No, I don't believe they would. Of course he couldn't possibly tell everything the told us.”

“No, poor soul! I detested her heartily in life, but it seems a very small thing to cost one one's life. However... I must be off.” He looked at his wrist watch. “I have a lecture. Good afternoon... and a pleasant walk.”

Big Log

The two girls went on only a few steps until they came to the end of the path, or, rather, to the edge of the wood. Perhaps at some time the trees here had extended to the water's edge, but they had been cleared for a distance of an eighth of a mile along the river and perhaps twenty feet back from the edge. This was the rocky stretch of ground, although Michael had not told them... where he had seen Miss Lissey with her resting place. This also was the place, just at the end of the path, where Mrs. Devoe's body had been found. Not knowing the exact spot, they did not shiver, and avoid it, but went on, slowly, up the bank.

“Do you see that big log, about half way up the clearing?” Bunny asked quietly. “It's just under the overhang of the trees. Look... that big stump is almost directly be-

Inquest Fails to Determine Cause Of Train Crash

Neenah Swimming Pool Architect Killed, 43 Reported Injured

Arcola, Ill.—(P)—A Douglas county coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death by skull fracture today at its inquest for the victim of yesterday's collision of two Illinois Central trains here, but made no attempt to fix the cause of the tragedy.

No indication was given as to the cause of the wreck which killed

DESIGNED NEENAH POOL

Neenah — Thomas E. Tallmadge, 63, Chicago architect, who was killed when two Illinois Central trains collided Monday near Arcola, Ill., was well known in Neenah. He was the architect which drew plans and specifications for Neenah's $160,000 swimming pool and recreation building. Mr. Tallmadge was returning from a holiday vacation at New Orleans with his sister, Miss Abbey Tallmadge, when the accident occurred. She was shaken.

Thomas E. Tallmadge, 63, prominent Chicago architect, and injured at least 34 others.

Both trains were carrying passengers from New Orleans, bound for Chicago, and both were behind schedule. The Louisiana was leaving the Arcola station after making a flag-stop for a passenger when the Panama limited crashed into the rear car.

Most of the passengers were asleep at the time.

Railroad officials said six or seven passengers were injured seriously. They were taken to hospitals in Tuscola, Mattoon and Champaign. The 34 listed as injured by the officials did not include those suffering only superficial injuries.

Sleepers Telescoped

The collision telescoped five all-steel Pullman sleepers on the Louisiana and the diner and a coal tender of the other train. The Panama limited was traveling about two miles behind the second section of the Louisiana before the latter stopped here.

Railroad officials declined to comment freely on the probable cause of the wreck pending an investigation. The Illinois commerce commission and the interstate commerce commission will investigate the accident independently.

Fireman Fred Fuller of Champaign, riding the Panama Limited, shouted a warning to Engineer R. S. Scott, also of Champaign, as their train bore down on the Louisiana. Then he jumped from the cab.

Engineer Scott set the brakes but the heavy train skidded into the Louisiana. Scott suffered cuts and an injured right shoulder and back. Fuller was treated for shock and a leg injury.

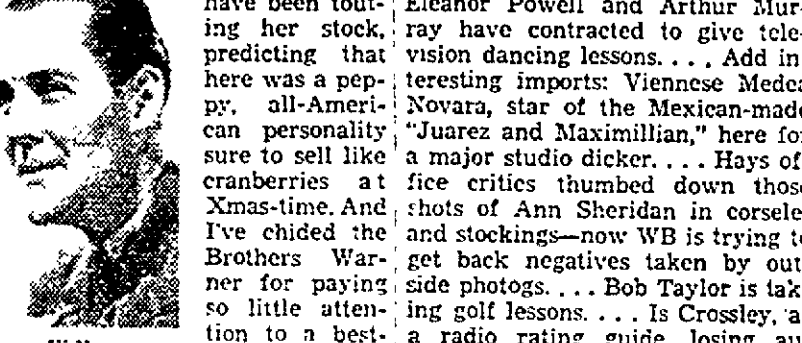

Among Chicagoans who suffered injuries—mostly cuts and bruises—were Prof. John Sprago of Northwestern university and Mrs. Sprago.

Tallmadge was known principally as a designer of ecclesiastical buildings and author of works on the history of architecture.

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—It's gratifying to go into the New Year with a pet opinion vindicated. Ever since Priscilla Lane's debut, I have been touting her stock, predicting that here was a peppy, all-American personality sure to sell like cranberries at Xmas-time. And I've chided the Brothers Warner for paying so little attention to a best bet.

It seems that I'm not the only one nursing those opinions. Studio executives have just completed a survey of fan preferences, and Priscilla, in second place, lacked only a few votes of topping Bette Davis. So few, in fact, that she might well be rated the more dependable box office draw of the two, for her fans include all of the college and high school kids who never fail to express their liking by the purchase of theatre tickets.

It's strange that the results of such a poll should be a surprise to the Warner Brothers, who, as canny merchants, should know which of their commodities is most salable. But having learned, finally, Priscilla's true rating with John and Jane Public, I hope they will take the proper steps to cash in.

1940 should be a Priscilla Lane year, and I, for one, expect that the initial step will be to give Priscilla individual stardom. The “Four Daughters” idea is great; by all means, let's see more of that fine team. But let's also see the one real star of the group given a chance to shine on her own.

PERSONAL OBSERVATIONS: In Hollywood's night clubs, the young always act old and sophisticated; the old invariably act young and breathless. Add chain smokers; Gary Cooper. Few people can tell you the color of Glenda Farrell's eyes—those “picture” hats she affects conceal them. Mention any favorite dish—and Grace Moore will top it with two detailed recipes. Fascinating is the word for Ronald Colman's habit of going into a music and leaving a sentence hanging in mid-air. Lupe Velez is a con-

Trojan Quarter Scores First Marker, Passes For Second

BY RUSSELL NEWLAND
PASADENA, CALIF.—The football's Gibraltar was a mass of crumbled ruins today—the team that couldn't be beaten met up yesterday with the team that wouldn't be beaten.

Southern California was the toast of the Rose Bowl: Tennessee a new member of the losing team brigade and shorn of distinction that began accumulating back in the season of 1937.

The 14 to 0 score deciding the 25th Rose Bowl classic, witnessed by a jammed-in crowd of 92,000, was the most conclusive since Pittsburgh won from Washington here in 1937, 21 to 0.

Tennessee staked one of the nation's greatest gridiron reputations in the game. Defeat called a halt to a consecutive victory record of 23 hooked together through two full seasons and part of a third. Until the Southern California Trojan power machine rolled to touchdown in the second period, Tennessee's goal line had not been crossed in 15 encounters—10 last year and five in 1938.

The best backfield man in the Tennessee string played none of the game handicapped by a knee injury. Whether or not a George "Bad News" Cafego in top physical condition would have staved off the Trojan yard-gaining landslide was a matter of debate among grandstand master-minds.

"By a Superior Team"

A prepared statement issued by Major Bob Neyland, Tennessee coach, seemed to express the sentiments of most of the experts.

It said: "We were badly beaten by a superior team. I want to congratulate Howard Jones and his staff for the fine team they have turned out."

From start to finish Southern California left little doubt as to which side was superior.

It outdistanced and outgained Tennessee, on the ground and when checked there took to the air.

Tennessee came to the west coast for the first time heralded as a defensive giant. When the Trojan out tackle plays began clicking, the Volunteer line burst before the rolling flood.

Ambrose Schindler, high stepping quarterback who has run the gamut of playing from first string to third and back again, was the firebrand in the latest Southern California Rose Bowl victory, of which there have been six in as many appearances.

It was Schindler who sparked the two scoring drives, late in the second quarter and again toward the tail of the fourth.

The first touchdown march opened on the Tennessee 47-yard line. Schindler had returned a punt 10 yards to set the stage. He carried the ball in five of the six ground plays and tossed an 11-yard pass to a teammate in one of the other two gainers. He finally went over from the one-foot line.

The last-period touchdown gave the assembled thousands a true picture of Trojan power. The team passed and smashed 85 yards after recovering a Tennessee fumble. Fred Newman, Volunteer's fullback, had dropped the ball and U.S.C.'s sub halfback Joe Engle had snatched it into his own arms on his 15.

Schindler was in the role of field marshal. He directed an attack that brought ready praise from his coach.

Vois Flat Footed

Twice in the thrust, line battering or skirting feed, Schindler turned to the air. The second sortie brought the second score. The ball was on the one-yard line. Tennessee players tightened for another plunge. Schindler passed over the goal line to his left to Al Krueger, sub left end. The Volunteers were caught flat-footed.

When Tennessee's Newman fumbled it ended the only scoring—the only time it had been able to advance the oval past mid-field.

Had Newman held onto the leather, the game might have ended in a tie. Tennessee taking the ball on its one-yard line after a punt out of bounds, had driven exactly 60 yards to Southern California's 19.

The charge opened late in the third and ended early in the fourth quarter. A 36-yard pass from right half Bob Fox to end Jim Coleman was the highlight of the Vol's line yardage parade.

Kimberly High Cagers Defeat West Allis, 19-14

KIMBERLY — West Allis high met a superior team Saturday night when it was defeated by Kimberly high cagers by a score of 19 to 14 here.

The visitors had class and showed fast offensive play. They worked the ball on fast criss-crosses up the floor to the Papermaker free throw line but were stopped there by the tight defensive play of Kimberly.

But as good as the visiting Bull Dogs were, the Papermakers were better. They easily played their best game of the season, exhibiting ball handling and team spirit that would not be denied. The team discarded long range hit and miss shots and proved to the fans they can put on the heat when the chips are down.

Acting Coach Buck LeMay was as happy as a kid over the team's showing. All week he had the cagers improve their timing on p-e-t scoring plays. J. Van Cuyk played a whale of a game on offense, capturing rebounds under the enemy bucket, while C. Gaffney was everywhere at the right time and set the Papermaker pace.

Captain Williams steadied his mates and encouraged them on their fine team play. E. Vander Velden and P. Smits fitted in so nicely that their play was a thorn in the opposition side. The win over Class A competition should help make the Papermakers go a long ways in Class B tournament play next spring.

West Allis started off with a bang as Cincotta rifled the ball through the net and a moment later pushed in a rebound. Fish Gaffney got himself fouled by Cincotta, adding a gift, and on the next play Smits broke away from King to tip in a beauty. Van Cuyk dribbled to the east side of the court to add a push shot as the quarter ended.

Kimberly Leads at Half

King gave Red Williams an opportunity to add a gift and Vander Velden did likewise to Olsen. Play see-sawed back and forth practically the entire quarter with both squads playing beautiful ball. Finally Gaffney broke through on a fast charging play to score with the half having the Papermakers in the lead by an 8 to 5 score.

Opening the third quarter, West Allis inserted Muhr for Hrnjak. Muhris was over six feet, and all he did was to reach up and settle the ball in the net twice. Vander Velden came back to score one from under but Cincotta added a free throw to tie the game at 10-all.

Muhr of the Bull Dogs reached up again and added his third successive bucket to put the Bull Dogs in the lead 12 to 10 at the quarter.

Captain "Red" Williams rallied his mates to greater efforts by adding a bucket and a charity when fouled by Muhr. He got the rebound from the enemy's board on the next play and set the stage for Van Cuyk to come in fast, take the ball and put the Papermakers in the lead.

Williams added another bucket on a sleeper with Muhr of the visitors adding a gift. Williams then rang up a charity when King tried to get the ball away from Red.

West Allis was desperate in the closing minutes of play trying to stave off defeat. King fouled Van Cuyk and Williams did likewise to Olsen with both lads converting as the gun sounded.

The high school reserves defeated an all-star team composed of high scorers of the Kimberly intramural league. The reserves led at the quarter 16 to 5, and were behind at the half 6 to 5. The reserves led at the third period 12 to 5.

Kimbrough Sensational As Texas Aggies Defeat Tulane by 14-13 Score

BY FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

NEW ORLEANS—Rulers of college football after its bold Sugar Bowl triumph over Tulane, mighty Texas A. and M. today pondered the thought of playing Southern California. Rose Bowl kings, in a post-season game for the Finnish relief fund.

Over a banquet-table celebration of the 14-13 defeat of Tulane's Green Wave, Coach Homer Norton, a mild man threatened only a season ago with dismissal in the middle of a disappointing year, shook off the back-slaps, acknowledged he had heard talk of a post-season game with the Rose Bowl winners and commented:

"What do we think of it? Well, we love to play football!"

Officials of A. and M., members of the athletic council and others were sounded out and all concurred in the belief that such a game was a rather remote possibility but indicated it would be considered.

Reports in this football mad city were that the game would be played in Los Angeles "about Jan. 15," with an expected million-dollar gate to go to Finland for relief purposes.

Yesterday the Aggies' great full-back, John Alec Kimbrough, 210 pounds, all-America performer, stormed the Sugar Bowl with a classic running exhibition before 73,000 fans—largest sports crowd in the history of the southland—to crush a great Tulane team that couldn't hold the Haskell, Texas, hurricane.

Averages 5.7 yards.

Twice he scored and all afternoon he thundered up and down field in 60 minutes of the greatest one-man show ever staged in this part of the country. On 28 carries he crashed through for 152 yards, or a 5.7-yard average.

Deep in the fourth period, after Tulane had hurried across two rapid touchdowns that put the Aggies behind 13-7, Kimbrough got his tiring machine together and put across the winning score on the seventh play of a dramatic, 70-yard drive.

Walemon (Cotton) Price, Aggie quarterback, booted both extra points, shared in Kimbrough's running spree and passed the Tulane line. On the honor roll also was little Herb Smith, 160-pound end, who blocked the Tulane try for point that would have tied the game.

Denied once after reaching the one-foot line, the Aggies scored in the first period from the Tulane 32 on four plays.

Not until the third period did Tulane come out from under a thorough beating the Aggies were handing out. Kellogg took a quick kick on his own 25 and sprinted 75 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown behind marvelous blocking.

Soon after, Tulane recovered an Aggie fumble and moved right on to a touchdown.

The Aggies took the kickoff and, led by Kimbrough, surged back for the winning score.

TECH WHIPS MISSOURI

Miami, Fla.—Coach Bill Alexander ranked his 1940 Orange Bowl victors today with the great teams in Georgia Tech football history after watching the Engineers bewilder Missouri, 21 to 7.

"This Tech team hasn't as much power as our 1928 Rose Bowl squad, but it can do more things with the ball," the grizzled coach grinned.

That famous Rose Bowl team beat California 8-7 in a game never to be forgotten because of Roy Riegels' wrong-way run.

Missouri, really, never had a chance after the Tech magicians warmed up yesterday.

A crowd of 36,500 saw the Engineers, far from discouraged by an early Missouri touchdown fashioned by Paul Christman's passing arm, sweep straight back after the kickoff to tie the score and then add two more touchdowns on lightning plays.

Menasha St. Mary Beats Manitowoc By 36 to 28 Score

Resch's Basket and Two Free Throws in Final Quarter Help Zephyrs

Manitowoc—Long range firing by Don Wolfram made the Lincoln High basketball team a thing or two about basketball and administered a 36 to 28 beating in a benefit game here Sunday afternoon. Receipts from the tilt, which were double that of any game this season, will go to the chastised City squad.

Ken Laird, a former Lawrence college star and now coach at Milwaukee Country Day school, led the oldsters with "10 or more" buckets. Others in the lineup were Bob Laird, George Stingle, Irving Grunwaldt, Ray Rohloff, village marshal, and Ervin Rohloff, village treasurer. Grunwaldt sported a moth-eaten jersey which gradually fell off as the game progressed.

The City team claimed use of old rules slowed up its attack and issued a challenge for another tilt next year.

Black Creek Cabbage Leaves downed a Seymour quint by a 27 to 26 count in an overtime preliminary tussle.

Trail 28 to 18

At the end of the third period the Ships were still 10 points in arrears, 28 to 18, but Manitowoc got six points in the first minute of play in the fourth quarter to cut St. Mary's lead to five points, 28 to 24. In the next three minutes the Menasha team added three points on free throws. Wolfram sank a goal from the sidelines and Manthey heaved the ball half the length of the floor for a basket that made the score 32 to 28 with about three minutes to play.

The play that clinched the ball game for St. Mary's saw Resch dribble down the middle for a close shot, only to be shoved by Manthey as he lunged under the backboard. The basket counted and he was given two free throws, both of which he made, stretching the Zephyr lead to 36 to 28 and enabling them to freeze the ball for the remainder of playing time.

Resch's basket was the only field goal made by St. Mary in the fourth quarter. As a matter of fact the visitors, who were not playing the ten second rule, had been stalling in the back court with as much as five minutes of the game left and the Ships folded them. In the final quarter St. Mary was given 11 free throws, of which they made six.

St. Mary's sank its share of sensational shots, their "hot" man being a forward by the name of Schuler, who bagged four goals. Johnson, center, and Resch, guard, were two big boys with a lot of drive who the Ships just couldn't stop without committing fouls. Johnson was fouled seven times and made six out of 12 free throws and Resch was fouled five times and made six out of eight free throws.

The Zephyrs, coached by Bob Zuecher, former Creighton university athlete, displayed an efficient defense and very good ball handling.

Rooters Accompany Team

St. Mary's brought over a big delegation of rooters, headed by the Rev. Joseph Becker, a native of Manitowoc, who is principal of the school. Father Becker was graduated from Washington High school here in 1917. The St. Mary team has won nine straight games and is rated the top Catholic prep outfit in the Valley.

Manitowoc's junior varsity scored its sixth straight victory last night with great ease. The score was 34 to 9 and the St. Mary reserves were held to an 18 to 2 count at the half.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

DID NOT LEARN TO READ

If you had visited France in the year 750, you would have found things different in many ways from modern France. There are the same hills and valleys and rivers, to be sure, but the villages and cities have changed greatly, and so has the everyday life of the people.

In 750 there were almost no good roads in France. The only ones fit for use were a few which had been built by the Romans. The rest were mudholes in wet weather, and were dusty in dry weather. Farmers drove ox-carts along the roads at a slow rate--two or three miles an hour.

Little Prince Charles on a bear hunt.

The name "France" means "Land of the Franks." It came from Frankish tribesmen who invaded the country about 1500 years ago. Today the chief French coin is known as the "franc" and its name reminds us of the olden Franks.

In France in 750 was an eight-year-old boy named Charles. He had been born a prince. His father, a skillful general, had made himself king of the country, and was known as Pepin the Short.

Charles was taught to hunt and to ride while still a young boy. He proved to be expert in sports, but he was not taught reading and writing during his boyhood. These arts, he learned in later life, but the fact that he was not taught them when a child brought about certain events. We shall speak of these events in a later story.

Charles was 26 years old when his father died. In those days, it was a custom in France to divide a king's power among his sons. Charles was made ruler over part of the kingdom, and his younger brother, Carloman, was given another part.

On the death of Carloman, three years later, Charles became king of the whole country.

Soon afterward, there was an attack by Saxons of Germany on the northeastern border of France. Charles led an army to fight the Saxons, and drove them back beyond the Weser river.

At almost the same time, trouble broke out in Italy. The lands of Pope Adrian were laid waste by Lombard soldiers.

Charles, a member of the Christian church and a friend of the pope, rushed to the rescue with his soldiers. He led them safely across the Alps mountains, and defeated the Lombards in battle. Then he gave back to the Pope the lands which the Lombards had taken away.

New London High School Class of 1929 Has Reunion

19 of 51 Attend Tenth Anniversary Dinner, 21 Others Send Regrets

New London — What becomes of New London High school classmates during the 10 years after graduation—where are they and what are they doing?

Those are the questions the Class of 1929 felt curious about and they answered them in a casual manner at the first tenth anniversary class reunion at the Elwood hotel here Saturday night.

Out of a class of 51 there were 19 at the banquet, 34 persons in all with their wives and husbands. Twenty-one others wrote or wired regrets, 10 were not heard from. Only one of the class is dead. Seventy per cent of the graduates are making their living away from New London, three-fourths of them are married and most have families. One-fourth are still unmarried, about as many girls as boys.

Extends Welcome

Gerald Haase, president of the class and a New London resident acted as toastmaster and extended the welcome to visitors. Leo McNichols, clerk in a branch office of an oil company at Merrill, Wis., congratulated the officers on the success of the reunion and urged their continuance.

Mrs. Robert Taubel, Jr., formerly Eva Stuchman, read a memorial for the deceased member, Sylvia Miller. Ruth Penney, now Mrs. Raymond Primbrow and a registered nurse, read the old class prophecy of 10 years ago and compared with the facts. Wedded mates of members were introduced and a general get-together concluded the banquet. Other reunions are planned for every five years and Leo McNichols was named chairman for the 1944 meeting.

Others at the banquet were John Wochinski, operator of a grocery store at Royalton; Harold Kroll, operator of a dry cleaning business at Shawano; Jack Remick, 618 W. Beacon avenue, radio repairman; Myrtle Lintner, now wife of Martin Ruckdashed, New London telephone lineman; Mae Holtz, now wife of Dr. C. E. Ostermeier, New London dentist; Matthew Clark, 416 Shiocton street; Anita Rohloff, now Mrs. Ronald Dorschner, route 2, New London; James Dorsey, teacher at Chippewa Falls; Irma Kusnerow, now Mrs. Milton Handesche of Weyauwega; Leonard Froelich, Wausau; Magdalen Knapstein, New London grade school teacher; Gertrude Klatt, now Mrs. H. C. Mitchell, 517 W. Quincy street; Leo Talady, New London auto service man; Eunice Rickaby, four years a teacher and now wife of vocational teacher, George Zabel, Appleton.

Sending regrets were Evelyn Schultz, now married and at Sheboygan; Goldie Thurm, wife of an insurance broker at Chicago; Ray Haha, in the ice business at Rhinelander; Margaret Cooney, a nun at Milwaukee; Violet Tate, wife of hardware business man at Kalamazoo, Mich.; Helen Hemmy, now wife of chain store manager at Clintonville; Dorothy Bell, wife of teacher in South Dakota; Verla Clegg, married at Milwaukee; William Deady, director of playground work at Milwaukee; Patricia Doud, employed in the office of the Borden Milk Products company at Clintonville, unmarried; Mildred

Show Business Stages Comeback

(This is one of a series of articles briefly discussing important developments in the decade ending this year.)

BY JACK STINNETT
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—Those who love their entertainment will remember the 1930's as the decade when squawks grew into adult talking pictures; the stage saw a revival of big musicals, partial recuperation of the road, the rise of social significance dramas; radio opened its eyes and promised a future of television; and speakies took down their shutters and became respectable night clubs.

Although 1929 was the first big talkie year on the screen, it was not until the thirties that movies, plus-the-sound-and-verbiage really arrived. All-color pictures; cartoons, pioneered by Walt Disney and teaching feature-length dimensions; vicious movie subject cycles; an alarming decline and slow rise in weekly attendance figures; and signs of returning sanity and an awakening social consciousness, in Hollywood, all made the movie history in the 30's decade.

The stage hit its worst slump on record following the stock market crash in 29. The thirties saw the

American Public Agrees That Biggest News Stories Of Year Had to Do With Affairs of Europe

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—When the history of the violent year 1939 is written one question the historians will give their attention to—in addition to their charts and business indexes and day-by-day records—is the question: Which trends and events of 1939 loomed largest in the minds of the American people themselves? Which happenings most preoccupied them and commanded their greatest interest?

To explore this "human" record of 1939 the American Institute of Public Opinion has talked with several thousand carefully selected men and women in a scientific cross-section of the whole United States — rich and poor, Easterners and Westerners and Southerners, people living in the large cities of the Atlantic coast and people living hundreds of miles inland in small towns and farms far from the sea-board.

The survey shows that—wherever he lived—the average American was turning his attention overseas in 1939 as never before in recent years, and that domestic events were drowned out for him by the tramping of hobbled boots in Central Europe, in Finland and along the Rhine, and by the explosions of big guns on land and sea.

Among the ten news events of the year named as "most interesting," no less than seven took place overseas and two more were intimately connected with European problems. First and foremost in the minds of Americans at the year's end is the outbreak of war last September between England and France on one side and Germany on the other—an event which has been foreseen and dreaded by the average American for the last several years. Nearly twice as many persons mentioned the Anglo-French declaration of war as named any other single event.

Second on the list was the action taken by Congress and the President to meet the war crisis—the special session of Congress which met in September to debate the problems of American neutrality and which made it possible for England and France to buy airplanes and munitions in the U. S.

The bombing of Munich's Buergerbrau Hall just 11 minutes after the departure of Chancellor Hitler, and the dramatic story of how three light British cruisers hounded the German pocket battleship Graf Spee into the harbor of Montevideo where it was later scuttled and sent down in flames by the crew, ranked third and fourth respectively in the Institute survey.

Roosevelt's Thanksgiving Proclamation Makes List

Other leading events of the past year in the order of their mention were:

The German "blitzkrieg" against Poland and the rapid conquest and partition of that country early in October.

The visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the American continent, the first visit ever made to their hemisphere by reigning British sovereigns.

Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland on three different fronts.

Germany's occupation of Bohemia and Moravia in March, in contravention of the Munich agreement.

President Roosevelt's proclamation changing the date of Thanksgiving from its accustomed spot at the end of the November calendar—a surprising indication that some Americans at least were not completely preoccupied with the news from Europe, and

The Russo-German treaty of friendship, upsetting widely held notions of the incompatibility of Communism and Nazism, which preceded by a few days the outbreak of war.

Newspapers and Radio Make Events Familiar

A generation ago it was a commonplace that the people of the seaboard were more interested in events overseas than those of the inland states. Few Americans were supposed to be familiar with any political or economic developments outside their own local communities. But the Institute's survey gives graphic evidence that in every section of the United States today—and in all walks of life—everyday Americans are familiar with the same world events that concern students and experts.

One reason for the new and wider horizons of the average American is, of course, the phenomenal way in which newspapers and radio have organized the distribution of news—a distribution probably unmatched in any other country. A recent Institute study revealed that of the 45,000,000 persons who cast ballots in the last presidential election, approximately 40,000,000 read a daily newspaper, 40,000,000 own radios, and only 2,500,000 persons

Here are Public's Best Stories in 1939

The following list shows which news events of 1939 were considered "most interesting" by the men and women in a nation-wide Institute survey:

State Courts Barred From Foreclosure if Moratorium Is Sought in Federal Court

Washington—(AP)—The supreme court upheld today a contention that state courts are barred from proceeding with foreclosure action after a farmer files a petition in a federal district court under the Frazier-Lemke act for a moratorium on his indebtedness.

This was contended by Representative Lemke of North Dakota, co-author of the legislation designed to aid debt-ridden farmers. He asserted that filing the petition automatically divested state courts of jurisdiction and that no notification to them of the filing was required.

Lemke was one of the attorneys who argued before the high tribunal for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kalb, seeking to recover possession of their 120-acre farm in Walworth county, Wisconsin. Foreclosure of a mortgage held by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Feuerstein was authorized by the Walworth county court.

Contending they had been unlawfully evicted from the farm, the Kalbs also sought damages against County Judge Roscoe R. Luce, Sheriff George O'Brien and Mr. and Mrs. Feuerstein.

Both the circuit court for Walworth county and the Wisconsin Supreme court ruled against the Kalbs. Justice Black delivered today's decision that reversed the state supreme court. No dissent was announced.

The decision returned the cases to the Wisconsin Supreme Court "for proceedings in harmony with this opinion."

"Congress repeatedly stated its unequivocal purpose," Justice Black said, "to prohibit—in the absence of consent by the bankrupt farmer in which a distressed farmer has a pending petition—a mortgagee or any court from instituting, or maintaining if already instituted, any proceeding against the farmer to sell under mortgage foreclosure, to confirm such a sale, or to dispossess under it."

Joe emerged from his annual union rite with the following month-by-month predictions:

January, wet; February, wet; March, damp; April, dry; May, medium; June, wet; July, medium; August, dry; September, medium; October, wet; November, medium; December, wet.

It is relevant to add that Joe now uses a home-grown onion. Two years ago his predictions didn't work out so well. Joe said. The onion that crossed him up was a Bermuda.

Lewis and C.I.O. Again Named on Chicago Stage

Chicago—(AP)—John L. Lewis and the C. I. O. are being mentioned on the Chicago stage again.

They were removed from two shows last week after James C. Petrillo, head of the A. F. L. Musicians' Union in Chicago, objected to the use of theatres for C. I. O. "propaganda."

Last night, George White restored a brief skit on Lewis to its former place in the "scandals." The musical comedy impresario said the theatre management, not he, agreed to the censorship and added: "After all, it is my show."

Petrillo was in Miami, Fla., when White lifted the censorship.

New York Stocks Work Upward in Sluggish Trade

Exchange Gives Cordial Reception to New Year of 1940

New York—(AP)—The stock market nodded cordially to 1940 today and then proceeded to work up a slow-going advance.

The list showed forward leanings at the start of another 12-month stretch, but the ticker tape never really got warm. While gains ranged from fractions to a point or so, were well distributed at the close, transfers held to around 600,000 shares for the five hours.

Traders apparently took with a grain or two of salt the usual batch of new year's predictions which, hopeful for the most part, still were tinged with caution. With congress getting under way tomorrow, many potential stock buyers held aloof to await clues regarding taxes and forthcoming election-year political trends.

Relaxation of tax selling and the appearance of investment purchasing here and there seemed helpful influences. Rails were popular in the bond department. Foreign securities markets turned a bit mixed.

The officially estimated rebound of 12 points in this week's steel mill operations at 85.7 per cent of capacity was hardly up to Wall Street guesses, but it was realized a number of furnaces were remaining idle for completion of repairs. Other business news was encouraging.

Any wheat at Chicago jumped to $1.07 a bushel, a new high for more than two years. Wheat futures ended up 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel. Corn gained 4 to 1/2. Cotton, in afternoon transactions, was up 70 cents to $12.0 a bale.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Salable cattle 15,000; salable calves 1,000; strictly good and choice fed steers and yearlings in comparatively moderate supply; steady; all others slow, weak; medium to good grades predominating in run; strictly finished to 1,000 to 1,100 lbs. yearlings scarce; strictly choice yearlings held around 11.50; several loads yearlings and light steers 10.75-11.25; best heavies 10.50; not many cattle sold at 9.50 downward to 8.25 and below; steers supply such cattle here; heifers steady to weak; best 10.00; mixed offerings 10.50; bulk heifers 9.00.

Prices of Wheat Shoot Up Three Cents at Chicago

Many Factors Combine to Encourage Buying On Market

Chicago—(AP)—Wheat prices shot up 3 cents a bushel today in the first market session of 1940.

Expectations of improved flour demand, a pessimistic railroad crop survey in the winter wheat belt, and some mill buying were factors. The price rise caused execution of numerous stop-loss orders on the part of previous "short" sellers, which accelerated the advance.

Receipts were: wheat 38 cars, corn 136, oats 17.

Wheat closed at the best levels of the day, 23 1/2 cents higher than Saturday, May $1.06 1/2-1.07, July $1.04 1/2-1.05, corn 8 1/2-9, May 59 1/2-60, July 59 1/2-60; oats 1 1/2-1 3/4.

Pegler, Too, Wonders Why the Delay in Bioff Extradition

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Henry Horner, the Democratic governor of Illinois, has filed a $250,000 libel suit against Frank Knox, Republican, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, on account of a recent editorial discussing Horner's conduct in the attempt to extradite Willie Bioff, the Chicago pander and labor racketeer, from Los Angeles.

This editorial said that decent people would wonder why Horner had permitted such long delays to occur in a routine matter of extradition. The fact that Bioff was a convicted vice-monger who had failed to serve a sentence affirmed by the appellate court was disclosed on Nov. 22. Bioff was promptly arrested in Los Angeles on a telegraphed warrant, but his attorneys in Illinois began to work for delays with the result that he was turned loose in Los Angeles without bond on the ground that Thomas Courtney, the Chicago prosecutor, had not acted promptly in bringing him back.

In order to act at all, however, Courtney must have a requisition on the governor of California signed by Governor Horner. This requisition Governor Horner has refused to issue up to this time. He has now set Jan. 10 for further hearings on this preliminary step, so there has already occurred a delay of seven weeks. And if, at some future time, Horner does sign a requisition and Governor Olsen of California indicates an intention to honor it, Bioff will be free to step over the border into Nevada, thus requiring another application to Horner for another requisition. Bioff's attorneys then could start the whole program over again, and the process could be repeated.

For years at Horner's rate of progress, Courtney has been state's attorney of Cook county for seven years, and this is the first case in all his experience in which it has been necessary to fight for a requisition for a convicted criminal. Ordinarily the governor of the state which is demanding the criminal signs the requisition promptly on the presentation of proofs. Sometimes the criminal is able to cause a delay, even in rare cases to prevent extradition by legal action in the state in which he has been arrested. But in such cases there is usually a claim of rehabilitation or an attack on the validity of the conviction.

Delay Now Has Stretched To Almost Two Months

In Bioff's case no claim of any kind has been made. He just applied for delays, and Governor Horner has been granting them. There is no dispute as to his identity. There is no claim before Governor Horner that Bioff has gone straight since his conviction for taking money from a woman which she had earned by prostitution. Horner himself is not naive, and a man of his long experience in public life would be likely to have knowledge that Bioff was a racketeer and that he had a record of many arrests, some of which occurred after his conviction for pandering. If he doesn't know it, the facts can be shown to him in five minutes.

There is much more to this case than the mere extradition and imprisonment of a notorious racketeer, and the very fact that issuance of the Bioff requisition has been delayed until Jan. 10, at the earliest, will suggest the importance to the public of the testimony which will be presented in Governor Horner's libel suit against Frank Knox. I do not find in the editorial any charge that Horner is a corrupt politician, or allied with criminals, but as one who does know the criminal character of Willie Bioff and something of his career as a labor racketeer I subscribe to Knox's editorial remark that "decent people are curious to know why it requires three weeks to determine whether a convicted panderer should be brought back to complete a sentence for one of the most filthy crimes and offenses of which a man can be found guilty." The delay has now stretched to almost two months. If it is libelous to wonder why the governor has waded for a suit against many decent citizens.
